Grundy Center school board hires assistant wrestling coach

By Michaela Kendall

The Grundy Register GRUNDY CENTER - For more than a year now, the Grundy Center School Board has discussed the potential of creating an independent, Grundy Center Spartan wrestling team.

At last week's meeting, the board took the next step towards building that program when they created a position for an assistant wrestling coach, and hired Colby Grothoff to fill it.

Grothoff – who teaches social studies at the high school has two years of previous varsity coaching experience with the wrestling team at Hudson High School.

Currently, Grundy Center shares a wrestling program with Aplington-Parkersburg, and the plan is to continue that sharing agreement for now, while having Grothoff work as an assistant coach to AP's Head Wrestling Coach Brian Benning. As assistant coach, Grothoff will work with wrestlers, while learning the in's and out's of running a wrestling program. He will also drive the shuttle bus to and from Parkersburg and provide transportation to away meets.

Activities Director Dan Breyfogle said the hope is that the presence of a Grundy Center coach will help drive and build the potential independent wrestling program.

"This is the logical next step to developing a quality wrestling program at Grundy Center," Breyfogle said. "The hope is that this person would transition into the head coaching role here and lead our program back onto its own two feet."

Johnston, Ehmen crowned fair royalty

By Michaela Kendall The Grundy Register

GRUNDY CENTER - Last Tuesday night at the grandstands, the 2017 Grundy County Fair Queen and King were crowned in a special coronation ceremony prior to the annual Family Fun Night festivities.

This year's Fair Queen is Adeline Johnston of Parkersburg, and this year's Fair King is Rhett Ehmen of Dike.

longtime 4-H'er, she was the President of the Lincoln Junior Farmers 4-H Club her junior year in high school, where she had many projects make it to state. Adeline is also involved in County Council, where she's helped plan events for the Grundy County Fair, as well as FFA, where she was named President of the Grundy Center FFA her senior year. In April of this year, she was chosen to compete at the 2017 FFA Leadership Conference, where she received a

During her years of exhibiting animals at the Grundy County Fair, Adeline says her parents taught her to be one of the first people in the barn in the morning and one of the last to leave at night to make sure her animals were well taken care of. She hopes people will remember her as a hard worker.

Adeline plans to attend DMACC in the fall, and she hopes to go on to Iowa State University to become a lower elementary special education Rhett Ehmen

Rhett is the son of Rick and Karen Ehmen. Rhett is a dedicated FFA member, and was the vice president of the Lincoln Junior Farmers 4-H Club.

Grundems chair announces state senate run

Freese will likely face Majority Leader Bill Dix

By: ROBERT MAHARRY

The Grundy Register DIKE- Four months ago, Tracy Freese ascended to the rank of chairwoman with the Grundy County Democratic Party, and this week, she formally announced that she'll be running for the Iowa Senate District 25 seat in 2018 and likely challenging Majority Leader Bill Dix (R-Shell Rock) amidst calls for his resignation over the handling of a sexual harassment case at the statehouse.

Freese, 34, is a former banker and financial planner who lives in Dike with her husband Ben and their three children. She bills herself as a pragmatic liberal in a deep red district and hopes to help her party regain the majority in the aftermath of one of the most conservative legislative sessions in state history in 2017.

"Did this legislation influence me? Of course," Freese said in an interview. "(But) the fact that Bill Dix just cost Iowa taxpayers

Tracy Freese

$2.2 million unnecessarily got me off the sidelines... There's an open invitation for Kirsten Anderson to come campaign with me anytime."

She went on to point out Medicare for All, responsible gun ownership and the deregulation of cannabis as issues that separate her from mainstream Democrats and could attract independent and conservative support. Most of all, though, Freese credits her own backgroundshe calls herself "a product of the social safety net"— in inspiring her to run for office.

"Because my community was willing to pay its fair share to support my mother when she couldn't support herself due to disability, I feel that it's my debt to society to pay," the Clinton native said. "The people that supported me, I'd like to support them. And that goes far beyond party lines." Dix, 54, a farmer and father of three, served in the state house from 1997 to 2005 before unsuccessfully running for U.S. House in 2006. He defeated Democrat Bill Heckroth in 2010 with 57 percent of the vote to win his current seat and ran unopposed

On July 18, a Polk County jury awarded $2.2 million to Anderson, a former Republican Senate Caucus Communications Director, over allegations of sexual harassment and wrongful termination—specifically, that she was fired for reporting lewd conversations and jokes to her superiors - and now, fellow GOP State Senator Rick Bertrand of Sioux City has called for Dix to resign, citing a "pattern of retaliation" that he claims is typical of the majority leader.

Guzzle reflects on second chances and the power of music after showstopping fair performance

By: ROBERT MAHARRY

The Grundy Register GRUNDY CENTER- Sometimes in our lives, we all have pain. We all have sorrow. But, if we are wise, we know that there's always tomorrow.

About three notes into Cayontae Guzzle's a capella performance of the Bill Withers classic "Lean on Me" at Saturday's Grundy County Fair Share the Fun show, everyone in the audience knew they were witnessing something special. The recent Grundy Center High School graduate dazzled the crowd and received a full standing ovation with his vocal stylings that at once recalled legends like Withers, Sam Cooke and The Temptations and modern R&B icons Usher and Ne-Yo, earning a chance to perform at the state fair next month in the process.

Motorcyclist injured in Hwy 20 accident

By: ROBERT MAHARRY The Grundy Register

ing a 2013 Honda motorcycle westbound when he dropped off the inside shoulder, tried to bring himself back onto the road and lost control. Gavrielov was ejected from the vehicle after it rolled several times, and he was taken to Covenant Hospital in Waterloo.

According to sources, traffic was held up for an extended period of time as a result of the accident, and despite conflicting reports, Gavrielov was eventually stabilized and released.

Supervisors receive bids for bridge repair project

By: ROBERT MAHARRY

The Grundy Register GRUNDY CENTER- The Grundy County Board of Supervisors opened a pair of sealed bids from two local contractors for a bridge repair in a rural area of the county around 150th Street and J Avenue at Monday morning's regular meeting.

PCI of Reinbeck submitted the low bid at $79,932.50, and Boulder Contracting of Grundy Center submitted a bid of $119,600 for the project, which County Engineer Gary Mauer had originally estimated at $124,400. The repairs will include replacing wood piling with steel, and the bridge has been closed since May 1.

A motion to table action and allow Mauer to review the bids passed 4-0 (Mark Schildroth was absent).

In fireworks related news, the board unanimously rejected a permit application for Stan Neff because it was outside of the legal dates that consumer fireworks are allowed (June 1 to July 8), and according to county auditor Rhonda Deters, the types of fireworks he wanted to shoot would likely constitute consumer and not display. The board also voted to set a hearing for August 14 on regulations regarding where consumer fireworks can be sold.

"Why do we have to have anything more than what the state law says?" Supervisor Harlyn Riekena asked. "Why don't we just go with the state law and not put any more red tape on it?"

Another public hearing has been set for August 14 in regards to a family's request to build a private cemetery near Buck Grove, which would require the land to be rezoned from A-1 agricultural to A-2.

Sheriff Rick Penning received formal approval for the hiring of 30-year-old Zachary Anderson of Dike as the newest deputy, which will put the department back at full strength with 12 officers for the first time since Ron Tordoff retired in March. Anderson is currently going through the academy and will start on August 14.

Deters reported that problems with the paint job at the annex have not subsisted, and Kent Young of Young Painting has threatened to put a lean on the building over the situation.

"I am more frustrated than any one party, and you can print that," Deters said.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board:

Approved 2017 business, homestead and military property tax credit applications.

Approved an agreement to provide substance abuse prevention activities to residents of Grundy County for fiscal year 2017-2018.

· Approved letters of disallowance for military tax exemptions and a letter of disallowance for a business property tax

Work begins on Stout Astrodome concession stand

By Greg Forbes Mid-America Publishing

STOUT - The concession stand at the Stout Astrodome saw its own type of foul - or fowl, in this instance - before it moved to the ball field in the Duane Nevenhoven said his father used the building as a brooder house for chickens until it ended up at the diamond on the edge of town. A service counter and window were added, along with some other tweaks, to transform it into a concession stand.

Now, the Stout Ballpark Task Force, led by a group of Reformed Church of Stout members, is looking to modernize its facility with a new concession stand and attached bathroom. A water main was placed earlier this summer, which formally began the process for the new

The new facility will include men's and women's restrooms, a concession stand facing the bleachers and a storage area accessible from the concession

Nolan Junker, a member of the ballpark task force, said the group has raised $22,000 for the new concession stand and bathroom. The goal was set at $28,000. The crew received the go-ahead to begin work once the effort raised $21,000.

Contributions, he said, have come from grants, memorial money and donations. Inquiries about donations or more information can be sent to stoutastrodome@gmail.com.

Junker said he expects the new facility to be completed before the season begins next year. Member Brent Smiens said this will not only improve facilities, but encourage other teams to join and attract spectators. Currently, the field hosts a league consisting of six softball teams from local churches and other community organizations. Games are played on Tuesday

Looking at the progress already made, Nevenhoven said it's inspiring to see the care the group has put into the field.

"I am overjoyed," he said. "I darn near grew up in this place."

He recalled traveling professional teams that would come and entertain the local teams. Whether games played with the use of donkeys or an unbeatable four-man team, Nevenhoven said the efforts of the task force help keep those memories alive.

"This is a very good project," he said. "It's a great place

Member Brad Eiklenborg added that projects like this are important because it keeps traditions in Stout and provides entertainment for the community.

"We're showing that community that we still want (the Astrodome) to be a part of the community," he said.

Breyfogle said there was a total of four students out for wrestling last year - one in high school and three in middle school – but that a number of students he's talked to have expressed interest in joining the program if it was based in Grundy Center, and he believes having a coach right at the school, recruiting in the hallways could really help boost numbers.

Board member Bob Johanns expressed hesitation about hiring an assistant wrestling coach, suggesting that they didn't have the numbers, and that students and parents in [the soccer program shared with G-R] might not find it fair that students in wrestling have a Grundy Center coach, but they don't.

"I think it's a dangerous path to go down," Johanns said. "We're hiring a coach that we already have a coach for. We're paying a fee to AP to utilize their coaches and program. I get the aspect of [A-P] wanting us to get our program on its own feet, but we make that decision here as a board." Board member Chad Mackie reminded the other board members that when they entered the sharing agreement with A-P one year ago, it was with the express intent that the sharing would be temporary, until Grundy Center could get its own wrestling program on its feet. The agreement with A-P is for a maximum of three years, and Grundy Center is currently entering it's second year of the three year agreement.

"We made a unanimous decision to enter this sharing agreement, I believe it was a year ago, with the intention that this would progress into our own program," Mackie said. "It starts with a coach, who's out walking the hallways, and getting kids

Board member Brent Ascher agreed with Mackie, adding that after the board terminated the sharing agreement with G-R and chose to share with A-P, it was because there was interest expressed in getting an independent program started.

"We have to follow through with what we said we were going to do in the [sharing agreement with A-P]," Ascher said. "And this is what we discussed and agreed to do; to get a coach and try to get our own program started. I feel like we're backing out on our agreement if we don't do something. A-P jumped up a class to 2A for us, to provide the opportunity for our students to wrestle, and to me they did their part, so if we don't do this, we're not doing our part."

A vote was called for the approval of a motion to create the position of assistant wrestling coach, and to hire Colby Grothoff to fill that position. Board members Ron Saak, Brent Ascher, Chad Mackie and John Gordan voted in favor of the motion, and board member Bob Johanns voted not in favor. The motion passed with a 4-1

In a statement, Dix argued that Anderson's firing was the result of nothing other than her "poor work product" and that prior to his becoming Senate minority leader in 2013, the environment was "lacking in professionalism and appropriate behavior."

"Any issues that arose during the trial, which had not previously been reported to a supervisor, will be investigated and addressed immediately," Dix wrote. "During my leadership of the Senate Republican Caucus, harassment and inappropriate behavior was addressed immediately and effectively and it will continue to be addressed in that manner in the future. The Senate Republican Caucus is now a safe environment and there is no tolerance for any and all types of harassment."

During a follow up interview with The Grundy Register, Dix reiterated that he has no plans to resign and has personally made a point of instituting sexual harassment training for staffers.

"We've done that on a routine annual basis ever since we became aware of the issues and have been trying to ensure that these matters are dealt with swiftly and effectively," he said.

Dix repudiated Bertrand's aforementioned characterization and said that accountability has been a hallmark of his tenure thus far.

"I don't know what's going on in Rick's head, and I don't think it's appropriate for me to speculate on what's going on in his head," Dix said. "I'm firm and fair in how I try to lead the Senate, and I'm just going to leave it at that."

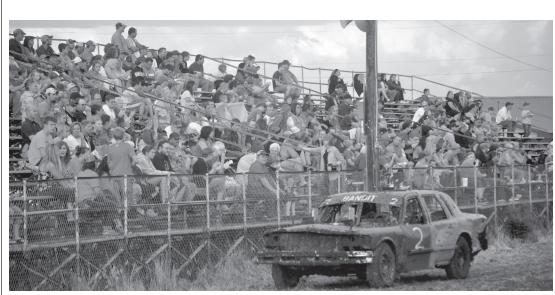

Freese, however, remains unconvinced.

"I have a message to (Republicans), and that is prove it. If they will not prove it, then remove (Dix)," she said in regards to the party's anti-sexual harassment policy. "If they don't, and they are unwilling to prove their intolerance, then I will do it for them."

The majority leader has not yet made an announcement on seeking re-election in 2018 but said that whether or not he had an opponent would have no bearing on the decision.

Tuesday, July 24, Governor Chet Culver appointed Bradley Harris as a District Court Judge for the 1st Judicial District of Iowa. Harris is currently a partner at the law firm of Kliebenstein, Heronimus, Schmidt, & Harris. He also serves as the Grundy County Attorney and the City Attorney for Grundy Center. The 1st Judicial District covers Howard, Chickasaw, Fayette, Buchanan, Black Hawk and Grundy counties. The vacancy was created when Iowa District Court Judge Karl D. Briner retired.

Local and county law enforcement officials were forced to stop a public dance about two hours after it started, then spent another four hours trying to control an unruly crowd in the streets of downtown Reinbeck last Saturday night and Sunday morning. This marked the third time this summer that outside police have been called because of disturbances at dances in Reinbeck. Reinbeck town marshal Ray Francis ordered the dance in the Reinbeck Memorial Building stopped about 11 p.m. Saturday because of repeated incidents of disorderly conduct. The Grundy county sheriff's office was called later in the evening to help control the crowd, which milled about in the street in front of the building until 3 a.m. Sunday.

Grundy County Sheriff Lcs Craven this week branded as false a report that he plans to resign in the near future because of poor health. The rumor that Craven was about to submit his resignation to the Grundy County Board of Supervisors; effective ln 30 days, was heard repeatedly earlier this week, both in and out of the courthouse. Asked about the rumor, Sheriff Craven told the Register it was "a false report." He went on to say he had not approached the board of supervisors on the matter. Sheriff Craven was a patient at Grundy County Memorial Hospital from July 11 to 15 after suffering chest pains, but returned to duty two days later Friends say he has not been feeling well lately.

Henry N. Dilly, 92, a pioneer resident of Grundy County, died a t his home In Grundy Center, Monday morning, following a n illness of more than six weeks. Mr. Dilly would have been 93 years of age August 14th. He had resided in Grundy County for 73 years, and was one of the very few residents who came to Grundy Center before the railroad had reached the town. During his very active life, Mr. Dilly was a member of the County Board of Supervisors, held the office of deputy sheriff, and last year he received honorary recognition for more than 50 years of continuous membership in the Knights of Pythias. He was also one of the founders of the Grundy County Fair association

So, when I heard the news that lead singer Chester Bennington had passed away of an apparent suicide last week at age 41, I couldn't help but flash back to the days when Linkin Park stood alone atop the pyramid of American rock. My good friend

Jack Mills brought a copy of the "Hybrid Theory" album over to my house, and we spun it for hours while playing Nintendo 64 and playing "21" on the basketball hoop in the driveway. Those were

What Linkin Park was doing musically—melding rap and rock with industrial elements—wasn't particularly unique in that era, but they managed to do it better than anyone else and reach mass accessibility in the process, due in part to the versatility and raw emotion conveyed in the voice of Mr. Bennington. They were less political than Rage Against the Machine, less dumb than Limp Bizkit, less religious than POD, less morbid than Nine Inch Nails and less weird than Korn. And as a result, the band sold millions upon millions of records.

I had lost track of Linkin Park and Bennington for the most part in recent years, except when I heard that he was filling in for (also recently deceased) Scott Wei-

WELLSBURG LIBRARY NEWS

Summer Reading has concluded for another year. We had 82 children register, a record number! Over the four programs we had 171 children take part and 59 adults as well. The children worked hard to get their minutes read and bookmarks filled up! The more minutes you read the sooner you were able to choose your prize. We built with Lego's and cereal boxes that community members saved. Absolute science visited and we had a great time doing experiments. Cole Anderson brought animals and their habitats to our third program. For our final program we enjoyed the juggling and unicycle act of the Hanson Family Shows! An exciting way to end the summer of fun! Eva Ross was the biggest reading from the younger age, she (along with her parents!) worked very hard. Reading the most minutes for children 3-8 grade was Madeline Bausman.

In addition, each child received a Library Activity Bag, to keep them reading and doing activities the rest of the summer. We received a grant from the Grundy County Foundation and were able to purchase bags (Star Readers, Wellsburg Public Library) folder with activities, colored pencils/markers and a book of their choice.

Adult Summer Reading just wrapped up their program on Saturday, July 15. We had 43 adults register this year. There were seven different programs they could attend: movie night, game night, card making, wine tasting/adult coloring, cake decorating and a book talk. They each had a challenge card to fill out and could drop it in the prize bucket of their choice, we drew from the names in each bucket. It was a lot of fun and got the adults reading different genres!

We are thankful for our sponsors who helped make this a successful year:

Many events are planned during the days of the exhibit. There will be four speakers (including a Vietnam Vet, DNA Specialist, Travel Agent, and an Ortssippenbuch specialist), three musical performances, one play, two lunches, a children's activity, refreshments every day from 2 - 4 p.m. and a cemetery walk. Cemetery walk will include visiting graves and hearing the stories of: Civil War veteran, World War II Veteran, minister, janitor, businessmen, funeral director, teacher, doctor, newspaper person and a farmer. Each day the exhibit is open at 10:00 a.m. The varied activities will be different every day. That means visitors will be entertained and learning something new every day.

The exhibit shows the important facets of German Iowa history, such as immigrants, communities, brewing, and politics. The photographs and posters examine the lasting influence of German immigrants and their descendants in Iowa. The Ostfriesen

Heritage Society was founded to help preserve the Platt Deutsch ("Low German") language through music, conversation and a locally-produced newsletter (Neues Blatt) that regularly provides sentences and stories in Platt Deutsch.

Programs are free with freewill donations being accepted.

GCMH is among 8 lowa hospitals recognized for use of technology

GRUNDY CENTER — Grundy County Memorial Hospital has been named a "Most Wired 2017" hospital, according to the results of the American Hospital Association's (AHA) Health Forum. "Most Wired" hospitals are leaders when applying technology in a variety of ways to improve communication, safety, and patient-provider relationships, according to the AHA.

Each year, the AHA surveys hospitals on their application of technology, establishing standards in four core areas. Hospitals that meet or exceed the standards in each of the areas are recognized as "Most Wired." Eight Iowa hospitals were recognized, including the UnityPoint Health system, which received the "Most Wired - Advanced" distinction for 2017. Hospitals in Des Moines, Davenport, Cedar Rapids, Ames, Fort Madison, and the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics in Iowa City received the 2017 award along with Grundy County Memorial Hospital.

"We're very pleased to be recognized for the efforts we've put into advanced technology,' remarks Steve Bantz, GCMH Information Technology manager. "Our goal is to help the hospital maximize its investment in health information technology by giving our nurses, doctors, and clinicians the tools they need to provide outstanding care for our patients." Bantz says that the hospital's affiliation with the UnityPoint Health system provides increased opportunity for the use of technology. "Because we are affiliated with UnityPoint Health, we can take advantage of the hospital-to-hospital health information technology partnership model to bring technology to our rural hospital that you normally only see in larger hospitals located in urban areas."

Grundy

Examples of ways the hospital is applying technology to improve patient communication include the myChart patient portal. Patient safety is impacted in a variety of ways through the hospital's electronic medical record by minimizing medication errors and introducing best practice alerts, which help nurses implement appropriate interventions for individual patients. The electronic medical record also provides data used to analyze care delivery. "If there is a solution that needs to be provided, IT is able to apply the technology that's in place to supply our clinicians with a variety of data and analytics," says Bantz.

Grundy County Memorial Hospital is a 25-bed critical access hospital affiliated with UnityPoint Health - Waterloo, and the UnityPoint Health system. The hospital has earned the "Most Wired" distinction each year since 2014.

By: Nick Buseman Grundy County Conservation Operation Supervisor

For many of us bow hunting is a year round activity; from searching for the sheds of the buck that survived another hunting season, to working and seeding food plots, and now running trail cameras to get an inventory of the quality of the deer herd on your property. All of these steps are important, but probably the most important preseason detail is practicing with your bow.

You can have a giant buck patterned on trail camera feeding in your lush food plot, but if you are unable to make the shot when he presents it; it is all for nothing if you can't close the deal with a shot hitting its mark. Practicing should be a year round thing, but if you are like me and have a family, job, and love doing other outdoor activities your practice is probably revving up about now. Many archers hone their skill by shooting at a target in their yard or with a buddy on an acreage. Don't get me wrong these are great ways to improve your accuracy, but I would recommend heading out to a local 3D course and challenging yourself to unknown distances at life size tar-

Personally there is no better practice then to fling an arrow at a true sized target to prove you can make an ethical shot come fall. If you are looking for a shoot close by you are in luck, we at the Grundy County Conservation again this year have teamed up with Scheels All Sports to provide a great 3D shoot here in Grundy County.

Grassley Q & A: Spending oversight

Question: What drives your relentless grip on the federal purse strings?

NEWS

Answer: Like many Iowans who grow up in households that don't spend beyond their means, I understand the need to pinch pennies. Reckless spending goes against the grain of a heritage rooted in Midwestern fiscal discipline. This philosophy has shaped how Iowans conserve natural resources and spare financial resources. It also guides my work for Iowans as a taxpayer watchdog. The Constitution vests Congress with power of the purse, giving authority to representatives of the people to decide how money is raised and spent. Voting for a tax or spending bill is one step in the process in our system of checks and balances. After the president signs a measure into law, I work to ensure the tax dollars are collected and spent as intended. With a nearly $4 trillion federal budget, this requires relentless commitment to effectively monitor federal payments. Unfortunately, the federal treasury is too often viewed as a cash cow for wrongdoers who milk the federal funding stream every chance they get. From national defense to federal health care programs, the federal treasury is a bulls-eye for bad actors. Disregard for hard-earned tax dollars gets my goat no matter which federal agency is targeted or at fault. That's because each defense, health care, agriculture or transportation dollar that is squandered or not spent as intended rips off taxpayers, deprives a public benefit and undermines the public trust.

Question: Is the Pentagon making strides to fix its bookkeeping flaws?

Answer: Unfortunately, the Pentagon continues to flunk the most fundamental measure of fiscal stewardship. In fact, it is the only federal agency that has failed to produce a clean audit. And that's despite the federal law Congress passed in 1990 requiring one from every federal agency, "The Chief Financial Officers Act." In April, I joined a bipartisan letter to the Secretary of Defense calling upon the Pentagon to comply with the long overdue, mandatory clean audit. In 2010, Congress even gave the Pentagon more breathing room to achieve compliance, setting a new deadline of September 30, 2017. The Defense Department has an obligation to assure the taxpaying public that its investments in our military are being protected against waste, fraud and abuse. As it stands, the public's confidence has been shaken once again with revelations of fiscal mismanagement by the Pentagon in Afghanistan. The squandering of tens of millions of dollars casts a cloud over the Department of Defense when America depends on it to spend every dollar as effectively and efficiently as possible for our military readiness and national security. Pentagon officials still are unable to document if a natural gas filling station cost American taxpayers $5.1 million or $43 million. My oversight of the matter a year ago revealed Pentagon bookkeepers were more concerned about shifting blame and making excuses rather than the issue at hand: sound fiscal stewardship of tax dollars. Another example of fiscal folly this summer revealed the Pentagon wasted as much as $28 million over the last decade on an ill-suited camouflage pattern for the Afghan army. Auditors discovered the Pentagon approved a more expensive forest print that doesn't work for 98 percent of the desert terrain in Afghanistan. That's as bone-headed as cashing one's paycheck and throwing the money out the window along the interstate corridor between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids. These two audits were carried out by SIGAR, the agency Congress installed to audit reconstruction spending in Afghanistan. It confirms the Pentagon requires an even shorter leash when it comes to fiscal stewardship. That's why I will continue pressing for the Pentagon to come clean with a clean audit once and for all. That goes for the entire federal government. Oversight, enforcement and transparency are vital tools to fight fraud and wasteful spending.

Question: How can tax dollars lost to fraud be recovered?

Answer: The federal government's number one tool to fight fraud comes from the whistleblower amendments I secured to the False Claims Act. The Justice Department credits the Grassley "qui tam" amendments for helping to recover more than $53 billion to the U.S. Treasury. These recoveries underscore two very important facts. First, whistleblowers are vital to protecting the taxpaying public from waste, fraud and abuse. Second, wrongdoers will never stop trying to fleece the federal government. In fact, the Justice Department in July announced its largest ever health care fraud enforcement in history. More than 400 individuals are charged with defrauding $1.3 billion from federal coffers, from billing Medicare, Medicaid and TRICARE for prescriptions never purchased, collecting money for false treatments and tests and handing out prescriptions for cash. The scheme reached deeply into America's opioid crisis, in which doctors, nurses and other health care professionals distributed prescription narcotics and painkillers for payment. A sweeping collaborative investigation by the Justice Department, U.S. Attorneys offices, FBI, IRS, Drug Enforcement Administration and 30 state Medicare Fraud Control Units were involved in the investigation and arrests. This billion-dollar example of fraud not only reflects the cost burden to taxpayers; it also exposes the price of criminal greed on the nation's opioid crisis and to the millions of beneficiaries of federal health care programs who were victims of diverted resources. As Congress makes decisions on the federal budget, I will continue my strong support and robust oversight of anti-fraud programs, whistleblower protections, inspectors general authority and transparency laws to stay ahead of wrongdoers and prosecute those who fleece the government and ultimately harm the public good.

our attitude about being asked to help or do things not explicitly mentioned in our job description? Many become indignant when asked to clean or do things at work that they consider beneath them. But aren't we all called to serve our fellow man as part of our calling as Christians, and if we are given the opportunity to do this at work, shouldn't we consider this a blessing. It is a bit strange that paid employees take umbrage at being asked to clean up a spill or help someone when they are, indeed, being paid to do it. Government employees and public officials are sometimes described as public servants, and many police departments use the phrase "to protect and serve" as their motto. We should all take this notion to heart, and actively look for ways that we can be more like a faithful servant at work and at home.

Guzzle

But for Guzzle, the opening line of that song and the message it conveys hold a special place in his heart: the long and winding road that led him back to Grundy Center for his senior year culminated with a 4-H citizenship award during the same show and acceptance into Hawkeye Community College's Digital Mass Media and Social Work programs. Not long ago, the silky-voiced crooner was spending his days at the Clarinda Academy and wondering if he'd ever get to be a normal kid again.

"I think being there just made me realize (that) that stuff wasn't for me," he said.

According to his foster mother, Guzzle "raised himself" on the streets of Waterloo and wound up in the system, attending Johnston High School before coming to Grundy Center with the Meesters and their seven other adopted children. The first time around, it wasn't a smooth ride.

"I came here, and the foster home here wasn't going so well. But I still kept in contact with them," he said. "I actually left because of some behaviors that I had."

That could've been the end of the story, but the Meesters fought tooth and nail with the help of a lawyer to bring Guzzle back to Grundy Center, where he attended prom, graduated from high school and now works the concession stand at the pool.

"He was part of the family. He was our son, and we wanted him back," foster mother Rose Meester said. "Finally, I said 'Cayontae, you've got to focus if you want to come home. You've just got to do it."

Through all of his personal troubles, however, he had an unmistakable gift: he could flat out belt. Guzzle's sister told him that he had a great voice after she overheard him singing Justin Bieber in the shower, and before long, he was signed up for a church talent show to perform Ne-Yo's "So Sick." He counts his biggest influences as the aforementioned artists, but lately, he's been on an oldies kick: in particular, Elvis Presley and the Beatles—whose classic "Let It Be" helps Guzzle find peace as he ages out of the foster care

Halfway through his senior year of high school, Guzzle returned to Grundy Center a changed man. With a new lease on life and a more positive outlook, he got involved in 4-H and exhibited several animals during fair week, leading up to an unexpected Citizenship Award from Grundy County 4-H and Youth Coordinator Andrea Traeger.

"From the moment he started singing, I had goose bumps and tears. Knowing that he has had many challenges in his life, the song "Lean On Me" was a perfect choice, and he made it sound so beautiful," Traeger said. "It was an absolutely amazing experience! I have not seen an audience so engaged, entertained and awed during one single performance."

Guzzle will head back to where it all began to attend Hawkeye this fall, and he'll carry the lessons he's learned from 4-H and music with him proudly. More importantly, though, he hopes to give back to children that have had the same experiences as him through social work, and if he can help one of them with their singing in the process, it's an added bonus.

"You just call on me brother, when you need a hand. We all need somebody to lean on. I just might have a problem that you'll understand. We all need somebody to lean on," the song says.

Those who wish to watch Guzzle perform at the State Fair can catch him on August 17 at the Bruce L. Rastetter 4-H Exhibits Building in Des Moines.

"It's just amazing. I can't stop smiling," he said.

New Hartford family opens theater in Branson A local Iowa performing family, The Johnson Strings, recently opened a brand new show at the Majestic (formerly Majestic Steaks) in Branson, MO, one of the biggest music destinations in the nation.

"It has been my dream to open a theater in Branson, ever since I was young" says Luke, "so I am excited to finally see all our hard work paying off!" The six Johnson siblings have studied violin, viola, cello, and piano professionally (from as young as age 3) and gone to various Iowa and Illinois universities and colleges for continuing musical training. They grew up on a rural farmstead outside of New Hartford and their dad, Paul, is a mechanical engineer and works at the Waterloo John Deere facility. As the years past, The Johnson Strings began receiving invitations to perform at venues ranging from large events such as fairs, and festivals, to churches, weddings, and concert halls. After traveling for 10 years as a family, they began looking for a place to open their own theater. "We were considering several options, but God opened the doors for us in Branson." states dad, Paul. "This city had everything we were looking for and it's in a beautiful area." With only 105 seats in their theater, it is an intimate, upclose experience. The Johnson Strings theater at the Majestic is in the same building as Branson Murder Mystery and the Atrium Event Center. Everyone is working together to remodel the historic "Majestic Steaks" building and bring it back to life.

At The Johnson Strings theater you'll hear new twists on universal favorites, stirring patriotic numbers like Stars and Stripes Forever, ragtime hits, famous gospel songs, fiery new takes on exciting classical pieces, flashy fiddle tunes with some trick fiddling like the Orange Blossom Special, and vocal hits as well. Have you ever seen four people play one grand piano all at the same time? Forty fingers on eighty-eight piano keys that's not many keys per person! "Music is emotional. It has the power to change lives! That's redifference." reveals mom, Linda. We are all defined by how we spend our time, and that is certainly true of the Johnson family. "It's amazing to calculate the amount of time we've spent practicing our instruments!" notes Abigail "I think my sister Karen holds the record right now with 40 hours of practice in one week. Combined, my brothers and sisters and I have had over 100 years of professional training and now we are the ones giving violin and piano lessons to others! It is good to be able to give back after having so many people invest in us.'

The Johnson Strings theater not only offers music, but also some unique concessions. "We're all food connoisseurs!" says Laura. "We're lucky to have a certified chef in the family! Karen makes decadent cupcakes, fresh chocolate chip cookies, brownies, and Amish sugar cookies for our concessions and they're all made from scratch. She is known for her baking!"

Annual auction recoups unpaid taxes for county, gives investors predictable return

Erin Sommers Graphic-Advocate

On a Monday morning in mid-June, about 30 people met in a conference room in the Calhoun County Courthouse basement.

Treasurer Lori Erkenbrack looked between a large wall screen and paperwork in her hand.

"Is anyone interested in item 33?" Erkenbrack asks the bidders, who sit quietly at tables, lists of bidder numbers and properties in front of them.

At least two bidders have already passed on the property, for which just $21 was owed in back

"No?" Erkenbrack said when no bidders spoke up. "Thirty-three will be no buyer."

That isn't unusual for such parcels, Erkenbrack said.

"Usually the dollar amount influences that," she said.

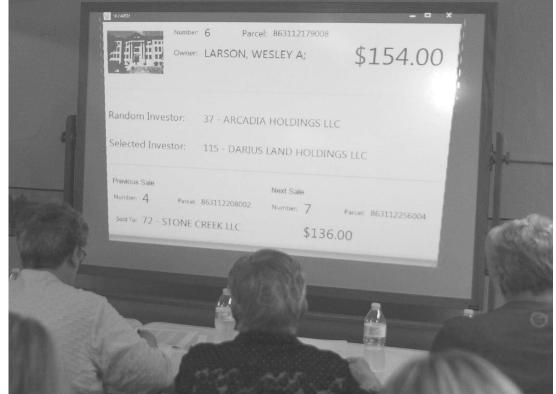

The tax auction is held in June each year, with buyers paying a fee and the unpaid taxes for any parcel in the county that has unpaid taxes from the previous year. Landowners then have a set amount of time to repay the taxes; the repayment, plus 2 percent interest, goes to the buyer. If the landowner doesn't pay off the taxes, the investor has the opportunity to begin the process of seizing the property after one year and nine months.

"If some of those parcels don't get sold, those taxes could go unpaid for that year," Erkenbrack said, explaining the benefit of the sale to the county.

Erkenbrack was first elected treasurer in 1999.

"When I first started, 2 percent was much better (interest) than you could get anywhere else," she said.

Investors must still think the rate is good - Erkenbrack said she has seen an increase in the number of investors participating in the annual sale. But investors are getting pickier, too.

Bidders watch a screen for property information at the Calhoun County tax sale auction June 19. (Graphic-Advocate Photo/Erin Sommers)

Years ago, "investors would purchase everything," Erkenbrack said. "I think they were getting stuck with parcels they didn't really want."

Now, investors investigate parcels closely, avoiding land and homes with liens on them, and properties that could be difficult to turn over if they end up owning it.

Most investors don't come to the auctions. Instead, investors can assign up to 10 bidding numbers to bidders, who attend the auction instead of the investors. South Central Calhoun Elementary School teacher Emily Stelling was there with two other school employees. They were there on behalf of a local banker, who in turn represented a larger acquisitions company. That company passed on the parcels worth bidding on; Stelling sat at the table with a highlighted list of acceptable properties to buy.

"It's a lottery thing," Stelling said, describing the bidding process, in which a county employee first calls up a property, then uses a computer system to select, at random, a bidder number. "It's exciting when your number comes up."

This year, five companies brought in 168 bidding numbers. Bidders paid close attention as Erkenbrack worked her way through the lengthy list of properties. Using a computer program to generate the bidding numbers speeds up the process significantly, Erkenbrack said, and only once has she had a bidder challenge the procedure. That bidder thought his number hadn't come up at all; Erkenbrack was able to pull up a list of bidding numbers as they had been called out and show him where his number did

For a long-running process, it's not something the general public has a lot of knowledge about, Erkenbrack said. The City of Rockwell City sent a bid representative to the auction; at the City Council meeting later that night, council members asked questions about the process. None, it seemed had ever attended the auction, and just a few city officials had any familiarity with the auction.

Landowners are notified at least three times about the taxes they owe before property goes to auction, Erkenbrack said. She typically allows landowners to pay the taxes up until the day before the auction.

"If their land was sold, they get egg yolks in a small bowl, and mash together with a fork until

6. Add the avocado mixture to the mayonnaise mixture and blend thoroughly. Spoon the mixture into each half of egg white.

Dust with the paprika, sprinkle with the cilantro and chorizo, and a letter telling them the parcel was sold," she said.

If the owner doesn't pay the taxes, plus interest, within that one year, nine month time frame, the investor can get a lawyer and issue an intent to claim the property. The landowner has 90 days to respond.

"If the owner does not pay, on the 91st day, the investor may take deed to the property," Erkenbrack said. "That's where the benefit to the investor comes in."

Of the several hundred properties that might go to auction, Erkenbrack sees investors take deed to a property no more than half a dozen times a year. Sometimes, the investors opt not to pursue the deed, because they decide the property isn't worth owning. The process gives landowners lots of time and warning before they lose their property.

fair," Erkenbrack said.

Season in Review: Softball

AGWSR, BCLUW enjoy successful seasons

> By JAKE RYDER The Grundy Register

North Iowa Cedar League West champions BCLUW, along with AGWSR, were the top of the heap of Register-area softball teams this summer.

The Iowa Girls Coaches Association will release all-state teams in the coming weeks, but here's a closer look at how the teams fared:

AGWSR

The Cougars were 26-13 overall and 8-4 in conference play this summer, finishing third in the NICL West after battling with BCLUW and West Marshall for the top spot for most of the season.

Eighth-grader Makenna Kuper made a splash in her inaugural season with the Cougars, batting .466 with nine doubles, seven triples and two home runs to go with 42 runs batted in and 12 stolen bases. The Cougars bashed 18 home runs as a team, with Rachel Sicard sending a team-leading six bombs over the fence.

Taryan Barrick was the strikeout queen of Class 1A as her 258 strikeouts was the highest total of any hurler in the state. She was 21-6 in the circle with a 1.03 ERA, allowing 22 earned runs in 149 innings pitched. Barrick also batted .400 at the plate with seven doubles and three home runs.

AGWSR had the best team defense of NICL West squads, committing just nine errors in 272 chances.

Belle Plaine upended the Cougars 3-2 in a 1A regional final, stopping AGWSR's bid for a fourth state tournament appearance in the last five years.

The North Iowa Cedar

League West champions, who won the title in a winner-takeall match with West Marshall in State Center two days before the beginning of the postseason, were 29-9 overall and 11-1 in conference play.

The seniors were led by an experienced senior crew, including Samantha Ubben, who was 19-5 as BCLUW's ace in the pitcher's circle, striking out 199 batters and allowing 21 earned runs in 150 and one-third innings. Ubben also batted .413 with eight doubles and 29 runs batted in.

Leah Yantis was the big bat in the Comet lineup, bashing a team-leading seven home runs to go with nine doubles, a .426 batting average and a .530 onbase percentage. Jordyn Beeghly led the team with 39 RBIs and 13 doubles.

The Comets lost 1-0 to Waterloo Columbus in an 11-inning 2A regional final on July 10, missing out on an opportunity to return to the state tournament.

Dike-New Hartford

The Wolverines had an overall record of 4-23 and were 1-15 in the NICL East, finishing at the bottom of the conference standings.

D-NH primarily struggled with its defense, but won a stretch of three consecutive games from June 23-24 to show some fight at Denver on June 23 and at a Dunkerton tournament on June 24.

Elizabeth Cuvelier led the Wolverines with a .343 batting average and had team-high totals with four doubles, 14 runs batted in (tied with junior Carrie O'Connor) and 21 base on balls. Meghan Nystel added a teamhigh 11 stolen bases.

Grundy Center eliminated Dike-New Hartford in an opening-round regional game, 12-0 in four innings.

Gladbrook-Reinbeck

last, winning their first game of the season in a regional opening-round game with Hudson by a 13-2 score, eventually finishing the season 1-23 overall and 0-12 in NICL West play.

Haleigh Berendes, a sophomore, batted .426 for G-R with seven doubles and 12 runs batted in, all team highs.

G-R only had two seniors with playing time this summer Marissa Berendes batted .311 with six RBI and Sasha Nagle drove in seven runs and threw 34 and one-third innings in the pitcher's circle.

After finally getting into the win column, G-R ran into AGWSR, who dispatched the Rebels 12-0 in four innings in a regional quarterfinal on July 5.

Grundy Center

The young Spartans showed improvement near the end of a 7-18 season, with a 3-9 record in the NICL West.

Maddie McMartin batted .378 with four runs batted in. Kyah Luhring led the Spartans with 26 stolen bases and drove in seven runs. Jessica Ayers had a team-high six doubles and a .486 on-base percentage.

Season in Review: Baseball

D-NH's conference title, G-R's postseason run highlights summer

By JAKE RYDER

The Grundy Register Dike-New Hartford's repeat as North Iowa Cedar League East champions and Gladbrook-Reinbeck's run to the district final were among the top moments from the baseball season for Register-area teams.

The Iowa Newspaper Association will release its all-state teams next week. Here's a closer look at how the area teams fared:

AGWSR

The Cougars were 8-8 overall and 7-5 in the NICL West, tying for third in the division with Gladbrook-Reinbeck.

Matt Pfaltzgraff batted .315 for AGWSR with a team-leading four doubles in addition to 10 runs batted in. Josh Bartling batted .480 in 25 at-bats.

AGWSR had a strong core of pitching this season, with freshman Luke Starr having a breakout season with a 2.33 earned run average in 33 innings pitched, 52 strikeouts and an opponent batting average of .095. Junior Liam Stubbe was 3-0 on the mound with a 4.04 ERA and Caleb Bartling allowed 19 earned runs in 35 and one-third innings.

The young Cougars bid farewell to four seniors, Brent Janssen, Nate Karsjens, Tate Hofmeister and Caleb Bartling.

The Cougars had a lengthy end to the season – an 11-inning regular season finale victory over Grundy Center followed by a nine-inning loss, 5-4, to North Butler in AGWSR's postseason opener on Tuesday, July

BCLUW

The Comets had a final record of 14-12 and were the runners-up in the NICL West with an 8-4 record, trailing only undefeated champions West Marshall.

A fine season for BCLUW was kickstarted by a seven-game winning streak during the opening weeks, which had the Comets at 8-3 overall after the first 11 contests.

As a team, the Comets had the second-best team batting average in the West at .305, led by .400 hitters Troy Dolphin (.425), Brad Barkema (.417) and Logan Mann (.412).

Barkema led the team with 14 doubles and three home runs, while Blake Mann drove in a Comet-best 31 runs. Dolphin and Barkema also tied for the team lead in stolen bases, swiping 14 bases each.

BCLUW went deep into their roster to fill out the bullpen, with 10 different players taking a turn on the mound. Calob Keller was the most prolific with a 5-0 record and a 3.84 ERA in 34 2/3 innings pitched, while Blake Mann had the best ERA at 2.26, 3-3 on the mound and striking out a team-high 39 batters.

Ian Showers and Clay Silver will be among the key se-

BCLUW ended its season at home against East Marshall in an 8-2 loss in Beaman on July 8.

Dike-New Hartford

The Wolverines were 27-5 overall and 22-2 in the NICL East, winning the conference title by three games over runner-up A-P.

D-NH was led by a talented senior class - Nick Durnin, Rhett Ehmen, Ethan Huntington, Trent Johnson, Clayton Mapel, Collin Vanderlind and Ethan Weichers – that kept the Wolverines in the top 10 of Class 2A all season long.

Johnson was the team's leading hitter with a .415 average, driving in 23 runs with eight doubles and 20 stolen bases. Mapel led the team with 27 stolen bases and 10 doubles and added a .380 batting average. Weichers finished with seven home runs, tied for the third-highest total in Class 2A prior to the beginning of the state tournament.

The Wolverines also boasted an impressive bullpen, with four different pitchers winning five or more games on the mound. Nick Durnin allowed seven earned runs in 50 and two-third innings and Collin Vanderlind permitted just eight earned runs in 53 and one-third innings pitched. Durnin and Vanderlind also topped the strikeout charts for D-NH with 55 and 53 punchouts, respectively.

D-NH was upended in a district semifinal in Dike against South Hamilton, with the Hawks hanging on for a 2-0 vic-
