Slinker family will settle with Grundy County for $500,000

By ROBERT MAHARRY
The Grundy Register

GRUNDY CENTER- The family of a Wellsburg man who committed suicide at the Grundy County Jail in 2016 will receive a settlement of $500,000 over claims that the staff's reckless negligence resulted in his death, according to information first reported by the Des Moines Register last Wednesday.

Earl Slinker, the father of the late Jared Slinker, told The Grundy Register that he hopes the resolution of the case will bring about changes to the county's practices on housing suicidal inmates and staffing levels. At the time of the incident, Shane Oltman, who had been hired just a few weeks prior, was the only jailer/dispatcher working.

"I'm not blaming Shane Oltman at all. I feel bad for him. He was just following orders," Mr. Slinker, who farms near Grundy Center, said. "Grundy County has a very good section in their policy manual on suicide prevention. However, if you're not going to follow it, it's not going to do any good."

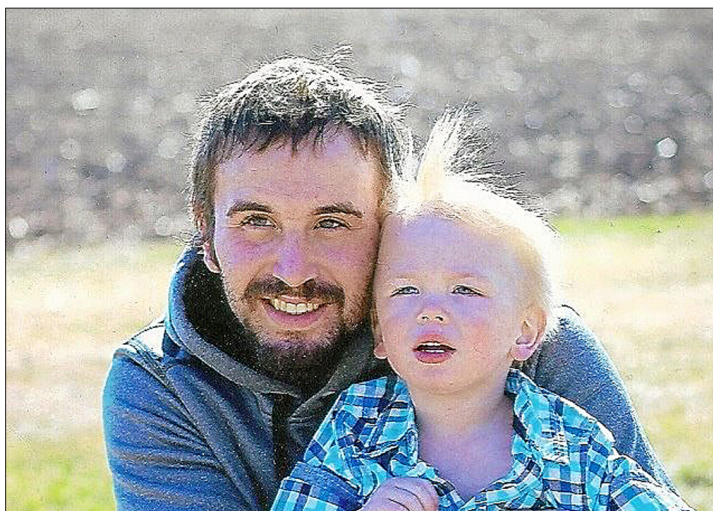

In the initial filing, the plaintiffs (represented by Cedar Rapids attorney Dave O'Brien) argued that Earl Slinker had provided law enforcement officials with several warnings about his son's mental state when he learned of a warrant being issued for his arrest, and Jared told the booking officer who processed him that he was depressed—a fact that wasn't documented on the intake form.

After Oltman discovered Jared Slinker, who was 26 years old, in an unresponsive state in his cell on January 28, 2016, it took 13 minutes for an ambulance call to be placed.

"What I hope they're doing, what I pray they're doing is that they're not processing people with suicidal tendencies into that jail with one jailer (in the future)," O'Brien said. "If they keep doing that, they're screwing up... You can't sit around for 13 minutes."

Grundy County Sheriff Rick Penning, on behalf of himself, Oltman, jail administrator/chief deputy Tim Wolthoff and officers Zach Tripp and Kirk Dolleslager—the four staffers who were working at the time of Slinker's death—declined to comment beyond saying that the settlement has not officially been finalized, and at the present time, none of the county's policies have changed.

Oltman, Wolthoff, Tripp and Dolleslager are all still employed with the county, and the money will be paid out of an insurance policy with the Iowa Communities Assurance Pool (ICAP). Penning was not present or on duty at the time of the incident.

"We're just being overly cautious," the longtime sheriff said about his hesitance to speak out on the matter. "We always review the policies periodically."

Both Slinker and O'Brien feel satisfied with the dollar amount of the settlement, which will go to Jared's three young children, but they still hope that it will increase the focus on preventing jail suicides around the state as Iowa has one of the highest rates in the nation. Last Monday, a Sioux City man who was serving a prison sentence at the Fort Dodge Correctional Facility was found dead and is believed to have taken his own life.

Disability Rights Iowa (DRI), the Des Moines-based activist group, has also published a report that largely concurs with the allegations Slinker and O'Brien leveled in their original lawsuit. At the end of the day, however, they don't feel that any of the law enforcement officials involved in the incident acted out of malice.

"I don't think there was any intent involved here. (Counties) are trying to save money. We've got to have tax breaks for the wealthy, so we can't afford to do these things the way they're supposed to be done anymore," O'Brien said. "The county stepped up to the plate and settled. They treated it seriously and appropriately like they should've, and I respect them for that."

A trial was originally scheduled for the spring of 2019 at the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Iowa in Cedar Rapids, and a hearing is set for October 29 to finalize the agreement.

The Grundy County Board of Supervisors did not discuss the matter at Monday morning's regular meeting.

GCPD presents traffic study results

By MICHAELA KENDALL
The Grundy Register

GRUNDY CENTER - After concerns about vehicles speeding through town on G Avenue, the Grundy Center Police Department requested a TEAP (traffic engineering assistance program) study from the Iowa DOT to look at options that would potentially help reduce speeding in town.

Over a year after the study was initially requested, GCPD Police Chief Doug Frost presented the results of the survey - conducted by Snyder and Associates - to the city council during their most recent meeting.

"There's been some concerns and calls about traffic up-town, and drivers speeding by while people are trying to cross the street and things like that," Frost said. "So, after [the council] directed me to look into it, [Public Works Director] Dan [Bangasser] and I contacted the DOT and they recommended this TEAP study."

For part of the study, Frost and officers on the police department were directed to take a traffic count of cars going through the area at different locations, the rest was done by Snyder and Associates.

Some of the main areas of concern that the study addressed

GC Lions Club celebrates 50 years of service

By MICHAELA KENDALL
The Grundy Register

GRUNDY CENTER - Since 1968, the Grundy Center Lions Club has been serving the community and taking on betterment projects to help those locally. Last month, the club marked 50 years of service in Grundy Center.

Local club president Gene Colson - who has been a member of the Grundy Center Lions Club for 37 years - says he's proud to be part of an organization that's had a long history of service in the community.

"[The Lions Club] has a lot of goals, but the main thing we do and why we get together is to serve the community," Colson said. "Some clubs meet once a month and just talk, some make a monthly donation with their dues, but we focus on service; we meet one hour a month, but we go out and work on different projects all month long."

One of the club's biggest service projects locally is Sight First, where the club members travel to each school in the area (Grundy Center, BCLUW, D-NH, G-R and GMG) to offer free eye-testing to local children ages six months to six years old.

Colson says Sight First is one of his favorite service projects, and one he's most passionate about.

"It's so great working with the young kids; it really brightens your day," he said. "I was testing a little girl in Dike the other week, and she remembered me from the testing day last year. It's a lot of fun when you get to see the same kids a couple of years in a row."

Colson says the club, through their Sight First program, has been able to test over 1,000 local children since 2004, and they have been able to catch a number of serious eye issues in the children they have tested, which might not have otherwise been diagnosed.

"It's a great feeling to know that we've helped a child, who maybe otherwise wouldn't have realized there was a problem," he said.

Another important service

Late last month, the Grundy Center Lions Club held a special dinner to celebrate the club's 50th Anniversary. After dinner, the group handed out awards to members. Shown above, Luther Thoresen (left) presented the "Warren Coleman" award to Bob Hoksbergen (right). In addition, Steve Faust received the "Lion of the Year" award, John Kramer received the "Volunteer of the Year" award and Luther Thoresen received the "2018 Distinguished Service Award." project the local Lions Club has is their medical equipment lending library. The lending library is stocked with used medical equipment such as wheelchairs, walkers, crutches, scooters and more, and the Lions Club lends the equipment to those in need free of charge.

"We knew there was a need for this kind of thing because there are some people who just don't have money to buy this sort of equipment, and there were a lot of other people just throwing it out," Colson said. "So, we started the lending library to help those people in need, and let them use this equipment free of charge. I remember there was

Meet the candidates 2018: House District 50

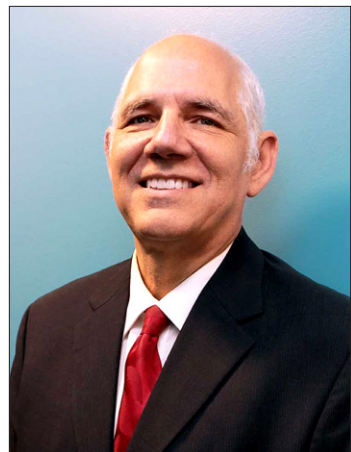

Grassley, Evans differ on Medicaid and social issues

By ROBERT MAHARRY
The Grundy Register

(Editor's note: This is the first installment in a two-part series about the local state legislature candidates and their political positions. Next week's edition will feature Republican State Senator Annette Sweeney and Democratic challenger Tracy Freese.)

AREA- Well-known Republican State Representative Pat Grassley, a six-term incumbent who farms near New Hartford, has received at least 60 percent of the votes cast in his last five re-election campaigns, but Democratic challenger Dennis Evans—a retired banker from Reinbeck—is hoping to change that as his party attempts to take back the House and the governor's office this November.

House District 50, which covers southern Butler County, all of Grundy County and northern Hardin County, has traditionally leaned strongly toward Republicans, and due to both the demographics and his strong name recognition as the grandson of longtime U.S. Senator Charles Grassley (R-Iowa), Grassley comes into the race as a strong favorite.

With Election Day just a few weeks away, Grassley and Evans took time to answer a host of questions submitted by The Grundy Register on several of the topics the legislature is expected to either address or revisit in the upcoming session. Their responses are printed below.

The Grundy Register: The state budget has been a major topic of discussion during the most recent session, including taxes, spending and health care for lower income Iowans. In general, do you feel that the state is on the right or wrong path, and what, if any, changes would you suggest should you win election?

Dennis Evans: I am very thankful that my family and I have had health insurance through my employer for my entire adult life. That means that for any health issue, it has been dealt with at the time and has not become a bigger health issue. Being dealt with at the time has saved myself and my insurance company money because the issue is dealt with before it became a bigger issue. For those people who were not as fortunate as we were don't not have the good outcomes that we had as they put off getting care.

Families living on minimum wage do not have options. They must figure out how to make very limited funds cover living costs. Typically these workers work for employers that do not provide coverage. When you look far into the future, these folks don't have the funds to ever get ahead and preparing for educating their children and preparing for retirement.

One suggestion I have is raising the minimum wage. It has not been raised in years and cost have gone up with inflation. Just keeping up with inflation, the minimum wage should at least be $10.50.

Pat Grassley: The state's balanced budget is on the right path. It is focusing resources on the programs that Iowans feel are most important like our public schools, health care, and public safety. I will continue to make sure that the tax dollars Iowans send to Des Moines are wisely spent and that the state does not make financial commitments it cannot keep.

Register: The farm economy and tariffs have been another inescapable topic recently. Is there anything the state legislature can do to help increase overall farm profits and improve the situation for agricultural producers, and how do conservation and water quality efforts fit into that larger picture? Also, do you believe the Master Ma

Local districts release enrollment numbers

By ROBERT MAHARRY
The Grundy Register

AREA- The recently finalized school enrollment numbers at Grundy County's five primary districts are something of a mixed bag this fall: Gladbrook-Reinbeck and AGWSR have reversed previous trends with a notable upswing in enrollment, while BCLUW, Grundy Center and Dike-New Hartford all saw slight decreases compared to the 2017-2018 school year.

AGWSR
AGWSR's certified enrollment (the total number of students living in the district) is 646.3 this year, up 20 from last October, and the number of students served, often called "butts in seats," is 582.61—up from 578.3 a year ago.

Erik Smith, the first-year superintendent, is excited about the gains and hopes that they'll continue in the years ahead.

"It's great to have those numbers and to see that growth. It does make things a little easier when making financial decisions moving forward," he said. "I think we just have to continue to do everything we can to build our district."

After over a decade of steady decline, district officials are thrilled about the latest numbers, but nonetheless, the conversations about open enrollment out will be ongoing: in all, AGWSR is still at a net negative of around 64 students, and 13 of the "new" students are open enrolled into other districts. Of all of the neighboring districts, Grundy Center gets the most kids who live within the boundaries of AGWSR, especially those who are south and east of

Morrison woman charged with unemployment fraud

By ROBERT MAHARRY
The Grundy Register
GRUNDY CENTER- A Morrison woman is facing felony charges after allegedly collecting more than $9,000 in fraudulent unemployment benefits over a span of 32 weeks in 2016 and 2017.

According to a court document dated October 18, 48-year-old Kimberly Sue Geiger unlawfully received $9,132 from Iowa Workforce Development (IWD) between July 16, 2016, and March 18, 2017. She has been charged with Second Degree Fraudulent Practices, a Class D felony, and IWD is requesting a total of $10,545.50 in restitution.

An initial appearance is scheduled for November 5 at 9:00 a.m. Geiger has previously been convicted of minor drug, theft and assault offenses, but charges on four counts of felony possession of narcotics, anhydrous ammonia and lithium were dismissed against her in Grundy County District Court in 2004.

Grundy County Attorney Erika Allen did not immediately respond to a request for comment, and Sheriff Rick Penning said his office was not involved in the investigation.

Traffic

were the pool crossing at 12th Street and G Avenue and the downtown area, from 4th St. to 9th St., where many pedestrians walk and cross the street, but also where many cars speed.

When the council directed Frost to look into the TEAP study, they wondered if lowering the speed limit would help with the issue.

But, when the results of the TEAP study came back, it recommended not to lower the speed limit.

"The report recommends not to lower the speed limit because that could potentially be more dangerous and cause more accidents," Frost said. "They recommended we leave the speed limit at 30 and shrink the road down from a four lane to a three lane, with one center lane to be used for turning in either direction."

The study also recommended putting a pedestrian activated crosswalk sign with flashing lights at 12th Street and G Ave., for pedestrians to use when they want to cross the street.

According to the report, the cost of the pedestrian crossing lights would be around $15,000 and the cost to convert G Ave. from a four lane to a three lane would be about a $248,000 job, plus another $1,000 for pavement markings, the report says.

Frost says there are an average of 5,500 to 6,800 vehicles that travel on G Avenue each day, according to the report, and that although he and other officers on the police department try their best to patrol and make a presence, they can't be everywhere at once.

"Since G Ave. is the busiest road in town, there's more accidents on that road, though we still have our fair share of accidents on side streets," he said. "We try our best to patrol the area, and make a presence, but that doesn't always help and we can't be everywhere at once; especially since our calls for service have been up recently and that takes us away from our regular patrol."

Frost says he's on the fence about the recommendations of the report, and added that it will ultimately be up to council.

"I'm sure they'll take some time to look over the report and discuss it more at a future meeting," he said. "There's a possibility of getting some state funding if they decide to go with the three lane conversion, since it's a state highway, but it depends on which direction the council chooses to go."

Supervisors give go-ahead on hiring new jailer

By ROBERT MAHARRY
The Grundy Register
GRUNDY CENTER- During a brief meeting on Monday morning, the Grundy County Board of Supervisors gave the sheriff's department the green light to move forward on hiring a new jailer/dispatcher. Longtime jailer/dispatcher John Calderwood is retiring later this year, and Sheriff Rick Penning told the board that he'd like to get a replacement trained as soon as possible. The county generally employs four full-time jailer/dispatchers and three part-timers.

Penning also reported that the new AT&T communication tower near Grundy Center is still coming along.

The board approved two utility permits and received updates on the Ivester Wind Farm from county engineer Gary Mauer.

AMES — Rebecca Steckelberg, of Conrad, was selected as one of sixty College of Agriculture and Life Sciences (CAL S) students to receive the Foreman Scholarship.

Steckelberg, a student in Agricultural and Life Sciences Education at Iowa State University, was selected for a combination of classroom performance and out-of-class leadership and volunteerism. The Fred Foreman scholarship is awarded to top students who serve the college by acting as peer mentors, club officers and representing the college on competitive teams with a preference for students in activities that assist in recruiting prospective students.

The Foreman Scholarship is renewable and can be received by students a maximum of three times to encourage continued participation. In addition, the scholarship features fifty-five $1,000 awards and five $5,000 awards, with top performing student leaders competing for the top five awards.

All Foreman Scholarship recipients are invited to be recognized at an annual dinner where they have the opportunity to meet with the family who funds the award. The students dine with the donors, CALS faculty and staff, and the other recipients of the award. In addition, speeches are offered by students, faculty and alumni paying tribute to the group's accomplishments and how they exemplify the values of the late Animal Science professor, Dr. Fred Foreman.

Gannon visits Grundy Center as election nears

By ROBERT MAHARRY
The Grundy Register

GRUNDY CENTER— One thing most Iowa Democrats and Republicans can agree on is the need for a stronger farm economy moving forward, but even so, there are key differences on how to get there. Although he acknowledges that the Secretary of Agriculture seat will be a tough one to win for a candidate with a “D” next to his name, Tim Gannon vowed to fight for farmers of all stripes during a stop at the Natural Grind coffee shop in Grundy Center last Tuesday.

Gannon, who grew up on a farm near Mingo and worked in the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) from 2009 to 2017, sees increasing profitability, sorting out the trade war and fighting for ethanol as a few of his top priorities should he be elected on November 6. He will face GOP incumbent Mike Naig, who was appointed earlier this year to replace longtime Secretary of Agriculture Bill Northey upon his confirmation for a federal job as an undersecretary at the USDA.

“Short term, we’ve got to get the trade situation worked out so we aren’t locked out of these markets we spent years and years building (and) the customers, the relationships we’ve been building,” he said. “We can sell our pork, beans, corn, ethanol and everything else we grow and raise overseas.”

During a wide-ranging interview with The Grundy Register, Gannon criticized small oil refinery waivers from the Renewable Fuel Standard (RFS) that have drawn widespread bipartisan condemnation from Iowa lawmakers, called for increased investment in agricultural research at Iowa State University (ISU) and expressed support for implementing the 3/8 of a cent sales tax to finance the Natural Resources Trust Fund (NRTF).

While acknowledging the fact that farmers as a constituency have overwhelmingly voted Republican in recent elections, Gannon hopes that his party’s momentum and frustration with the status quo can lead him to an upset win over Naig.

“I think a lot of people have their eyes on what’s going on in the ag economy and are nervous about it, and that probably benefits Democrats up and down the ticket along with other issues like what’s gone on with the privatization of Medicaid (and) what’s gone on with education funding,” Gannon said.

According to Gannon, there are a few key differences between himself and Naig: one, he says, is that Republicans in general have put “party over country” and are afraid to stand up to President Donald Trump on free trade issues. The other is the NRTF, which received 63 percent voter approval in 2010 but has never been funded in the eight years since.

The United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA)—or “NAFTA 2.0,” as the Democrat deemed it—still includes tariffs on American pork and dairy products, and China, the world’s largest export market, has hit the U.S. with stiff retaliatory tariffs on agricultural commodities.

“No amount of posturing has gotten that market back open, and that’s hurting farmers all across our state,” he said. “I won’t hesitate to call the administration out when I think their policies are hurting rural Iowa. We’ve got to get that profitability for farmers back so that we can keep rural Iowa a vibrant, vital place to live and raise a family.”

On the topic of the trust fund, Gannon believes that putting hundreds of millions of dollars back into natural resources (with the potential for matching federal grants) would have an instant impact on Iowa’s soil health, water quality and recreational opportunities like state parks—what he dubs “a conservation economy.” Currently, cover crops are planted on about a million of Iowa’s 30,000,000 tillable acres yearly, but the candidate is confident that the number can still be increased substantially.

Gannon also supports the federal push to legalize the cultivation of industrial hemp but takes a measured approach on the matter.

“I always want to be cautious that with any new crop, we aren’t saying ‘Okay, this is the silver bullet to helping farmers escape the cyclical issue of corn and bean prices,’” he said.

Democratic State Senate candidate Tracy Freese, who attended the event along with house candidate Dennis Evans, argued that even if farmers opted not to grow hemp or cannabis, it would be a great option nonetheless.

“A farmer may never ever want to do any of this, but wouldn’t you like to have it on the menu?” she asked.

Freese also asked Gannon why Republicans had “such an axe to grind” with the Leopold Center for Sustainable Agriculture at ISU, which was defunded in 2017.

As immigration remains one of the most hot-button issues in all of America—and particularly in Iowa, where migrants work in large numbers in meatpacking, dairy and other ag-related industries—Gannon advocated for a more stable system long term and called food security a national security issue. Ultimately, legal authority to enforce immigration laws still lies with the federal government.

“We don’t have enough people living in rural Iowa, and so if there’s a need for people to fill jobs—whether on the farm or in processing—then we need a system that helps get those people here to fill that need,” he said. “That takes Congress fixing a system that they have refused to fix for a long time.”

Gannon, a self-professed pork tenderloin enthusiast, told The Grundy Register that animal agriculture is a crucial aspect of the state’s economy and that it provides young farmers with an opportunity to break in to the business. He added that he would favor revisiting the Master Matrix scoring system for Concentrated Animal Feeding Operations (CAFOs) but did not offer any specific changes he would support.

“I don’t think a moratorium is the right way to go... It sends a message to some young people that this pathway to farming you thought was there for you may not be there for you,” Gannon said. “But no doubt, it would be a difficult conversation to have if you start talking about what could be done to change the Matrix.”

Responding to a broad question about the recent United Nations climate report and long-term goals for water quality, Gannon concluded by making the case that funding the NRTF, implementing soil conservation practices and remaining mindful of the future without giving up on a way of life that’s sustained Iowa throughout its history can all help the state put itself in a better position moving forward.

“A lot of times change doesn’t happen overnight, and a lot of times, change doesn’t happen as fast as we’d like to see it... (But) if we aren’t greatly increasing the rate at which we are getting people to use cover crops, then the issues you’re talking about are not going to get solved,” he said.

Several 911 calls to the Marshall County Communications Center Friday around 5:30 p.m. indicated shots fired and a possible motor vehicle accident in northern Marshall County on Highway 14. Responding agencies discovered two victims along the roadside, and a preliminary investigation indicated that they had been shot and killed on the scene. Jessica Deemer, 24, Waukee, and Bryce Mercer, 24, West Des Moines, were confirmed to be the victims, according to the Marshall County Sheriff's office. Witnesses told the sheriff's office that a suspect (later identified as Kyle Deemer, 27, West Des Moines) fled the scene northbound on Highway 14 in a silver pickup truck, and a possible license number was given. Surrounding law enforcement agencies, including the Grundy County Sheriff's office and the Grundy Center PoKylle Deemerlice Department, were notified of the fleeing vehicle's description. The Eldora Police Department located the suspect vehicle, and a chase ensued. Several local, county and state officers joined in the pursuit, including four Grundy County Sheriff's vehicles and Grundy Center law enforcement. According to the Grundy County Sheriff's office, the chase ended at approximately 6:30 p.m. in northwest Hardin County as the pickup left the roadway, but the suspect escaped on foot. The area surrounding the vehicle was secured and a search started, according to the report. According to the Grundy County Sheriff's office, the suspect was not apprehended until approximately midnight, when an Iowa State Patrol officer spotted Deemer near the Boondock's USA Truck Stop outside of Williams. Deemer was taken into custody without incident and charged with two counts of murder in the first degree. He is being held in the Marshall County jail without bond. Autopsies are being performed on the victims by the Iowa State Medical Examiner's office in Des Moines.

Fourteen Halloweens have gone by since Gary and Bonnie Henze of rural Wellsburg first started selling pumpkins. As the Henzes continue to sell more pumpkins each year, they have continued to increase their harvest. Although their biggest seller by far are the standard pumpkins, the Henzes also sell gourds, "Full Moon" white pumpkins, and other seasonal decorations. Last year, in their first year of offering the Full Moon pumpkins, they grew up to 84 pounds, Bonnie said. Along with selling to families, they also sell the pumpkins commercially, to businesses such as Hy Vee in Eldora, Apple Berry Orchard in Marshalltown, as well as preschools and nursing homes. Over the years they have sold the pumpkins to different stores, such as Pamida in Grundy Center and other local businesses. Although Bonnie said it is a lot of work, they enjoy selling them. "It grows on you," Bonnie said.

A new feature of this year's Festival of Trees will be a display of holiday Gingerbread Houses. We are hoping to amass an impressive collection of local culinary talent, young and old. Anyone with an artistic flare and an abundance of patience is welcome to submit their cremations. All sizes of houses are welcome, but we are asking that all houses be made of edible materials. Please preregister by calling Marilyn Hawn at the Chamber office, 824-3838. All houses will be displayed with the name of the entrant during the 3-day festival to take place November 19-21 at the Community Center.

Ghosts and goblins will be searching for their treats this Halloween as the fall publication, the Great Iowa Treasure Hunt approaches. State Treasurer Michael Fitzgerald prepares to return $3.4 million in unclaimed funds reported since May 1993, in the upcoming publication. "This is one of the largest fall publications since 1984," Fitzgerald says. "Over 21,000 Iowans are owed treats this Halloween. The average amount to be returned is $160; the minimum is $25. The money could be from forgotten or inactive savings/checking accounts, utility refunds or deposits, uncashed insurance benefit checks, lost stock and dividends or even abandoned safe deposit box contents. When persons do not respond over a period of time through regular mailings from banks or corporations holding their funds, the money is reported to the state treasury.

75 Years Ago This Week - 1943

When a team runs away now it is bigger news than when a car gets out of control. A team ran away with a mower in gear on the streets of Grundy Center late Thursday afternoon. The team was driven by Ernie French. He was thrown from the driver's seat and landed on the sickle bar. His pants caught on the sickle bar and he was dragged several rods before he was torn loose. If he had fallen a few inches farther forward, he would have been cut to pieces by the sickle. The leg which was dragged over the ground received a deep cut above the knee. Loose gravel worked into the cut and it was a painful operation to clean the wound. French was cutting weeds along the highway in the north part of town. The team became frightened at a piece of loose paper. They turned suddenly down Fifth street and it was the sudden turn which threw the driver from his seat. The team ran south at top speed for four blocks. Joe Wical stopped them near the Macy Hatchery building. Neither the mower nor team suffered any damage. The team belongs to Peter Wolthoff.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haskins, living in the northwest part of Grundy county, have received word from the war department that their son, Lieut. Morris Haskins, 24, is missing in action since September 27. He was pilot on a bomber serving overseas. He had been on 11 raids, mostly over France. He received his wings at Ellington Field, Texas, October 8, 1942, and was married the following day to Margaret Goldberry, who has been principal of one of the Iowa Falls schools for several years. Lieut. Haskins' wife received a letter recently from one of the men in her husband's squadron in which he stated that the last he saw of Lieut. Haskins he was headed into a bank of clouds with one engine of his plane on fire. There is a chance he may have been able to bail out; if so, he may be a German prisoner. The Haskins family formerly lived in Felix township, where the missing pilot was born on a farm.

Getting ready for winter
Conservation
Comments

I got to thinking about winter the other day. Which is sad because we went from this terrible wet weather stretch (I call it terrible but it did replenish the groundwater). Anyway, we went from that into fall. I didn't get a gradual conversion from summer to autumn. Now I am just complaining which is not what I intended when I started writing this. Thankfully, farmers have hit the harvest hard and seem to be making progress.

I was thinking about all the things that I still needed to be doing around the yard before winter. And all the things that should be sorted in the garage before winter is an annual chore for me and this winter we are back to two cars that need to get in there. Of course, I was also thinking about the treestand and how I would soon be sitting there. I needed to get started!

I guess what started me thinking that way was the fact that there were all sorts of animals around me getting ready for winter. The Fox Squirrels were about as active as they could be the other afternoon. Nut gathering and stashing is occupying a large part of their time.

And then it always happens that one interrupts another with the need to chase its friend around the tree, up the tree, into another tree, and then back down to the ground. It reminds me of "play" breaks that I need when I'm doing those getting ready for winter chores, too.

And the hawks were flying overhead. Each one making large circles in the sky. Each circle slowly taking them a little farther south on their migration route. Yet seemingly in no real hurry to get that job done. But should the weather have taken a nasty turn, the trip could quickly become a scramble to beat it south as soon as possible. Like my last minute winter jobs could turn to a scramble (and certainly have in past years).

This past weekend, there were a number of campers at the Grundy Lake and Wolf Creek campgrounds. They braved the high winds of Saturday. I suppose they needed one more trip before readying the rigs for winter. Maybe some even planning a trip or two into November. Here's to a long and very enjoyable November!

And then I was truly surprised to hear a frog start singing out a chorus over in the pond! It reminded me that frogs and snakes aren't quite ready to "give it up" and bury into the mud or slither into their burrow for the winter either. I know that I am not ready to say goodbye to fall yet. Maybe that's why I have put off those last few "get ready for winter jobs", too.

Letters to the editor

Mr. Maharry,

First of all, you are so far left that you can't be seen with binoculars. You interviewed Mrs. Freese and Mrs. Kopsa this past summer. During that interview you, Mrs. Freese, and Mrs. Kopsa thought it funny to call our Grundy County farmers "old fart farmers."

It is my impression by making that statement Grundy County Democrats have joined those Democrats across the nation that believe that verbal intimidation, bordering on harassment, is appropriate in expressing their opinions. This interview clearly demonstrates the lack of knowledge concerning the percentage of voters you have impacted, i.e. not only the "old fart farmers," but also those associated with the farming occupation -- grain elevator personnel, implement dealers, manufacturers of agriculture related products, and FFA members.

As we approach our right to vote, I would encourage all eligible voters to make your way to the voting booth and support the best candidate for election to office. I personally would like to know that I voted for a candidate that respects my self-worth, vocation, and values. Thank you Annette Sweeney for being that candidate.

To the editor:

I recently had a conversation with a young man whose mother in-law is a vegetarian. He asked her why and then found out she was only a vegetarian when it came to eating pork. She ate other proteins, such as eggs and chicken.

Her reasoning for not eating pork was strictly on how she perceives they are raised, inhumanely. So, why is this important? It's important because this woman, having never been on a pig farm before was making a decision based only on her perception of pig farming.

This month, pork producers focus on celebrating what the industry is partially all about; providing safe, wholesome food for consumers. Pork month is also about educating the consumer. In 2008, the We Care initiative was launched to promote the practices of farming as well as showing a commitment to continuously improve our methods.

To me, pork month is all about sharing what I do as a pig farmer. It is very important to me that consumers of all ages know what happens daily on a farm so they can make an educated decision when they are at the meat counter. From the joys to the struggles, I chose to share my story on social media. I post regularly on the daily activities, explain terms and why we do things a certain way, as well as post pictures of the baby piglets.

Although October is almost over, advocating for the pork industry isn't! I encourage farmers to share their story of their grain or livestock operations. Whether you host a farm tour or grill pork at a community event, you are advocating for agriculture so that an informed consumer can put more pork on their fork!

To the editor:

If you believe 4th District Iowans -- farmers, businesses, families, seniors, communities -- are facing bread and butter issues... if you are fearful for your way of life and concerned about the future of democracy... if you feel this mid-term election is one with significant ethical consequences... then I'm with you. If you believe elected officials need to act with moral courage, then I'm with you. Based on these current concerns, I and you should support J.D. Scholten.

As a fifth-generation Iowan, a person of faith, and a doer he will work on legislation benefitting the needs and interests of our district. He will show up, meet with all, not afraid to hear those who disagree with him. He will deny racial bigotry and white nationalism because we are all children of God.

He will be a servant leader who fights for democracy speaking out in favor of the rule of law, opposing efforts toward autocratic political rule. He will advocate for civil rights, opposing those who promote the mistreatment of women, deny rights of marginalized groups, and curtail freedom of speech.

He will work in a bipartisan manner, modeling honesty, speaking truth to power.

J.D. Scholten, unlike our current Congressman, would oppose discrimination against people because of their religious faith traditions and practices. He will oppose labeling refugees (65 million in the world today!) and immigrants as "rapists and murderers." He would take constructive actions to bring legitimate workers to Iowa.

He will oppose the stoppage of investigations into the cyber-attack of our country and corruption by public officials. J.D. Scholten will be a breath of fresh air for the 4th District, a representative we can be proud of.

Carl George Schmidt

Carl George Schmidt, 97, of Grundy Center, passed away October 19, 2018, at the Cedar Falls Health Care Center of natural causes. The memorial service for Carl will be held on (please note future date) Monday, November 5 at 10:30 AM at the American Lutheran Church in Grundy Center. Following the memorial service, the family will receive friends in the church Fellowship hall for coffee and refreshments. There will be no public visitation and the burial will be held privately by the family at the Rosehill Cemetery in Grundy Center. Memorials may be directed to the family and messages of condolence may be left for the family at www.abelsfuneralhomes.com

Carl was born on May 28, 1921, at his family's home in Colfax Township, Grundy County, to his parents Renko Sr. & Henrietta (Mammen) Schmidt. He grew up near Holland, where he attended country school. Carl and his family attended the Colfax Center Presbyterian Church in rural Holland where he was baptized as a young boy. He became a member of the American Lutheran Church in Grundy Center, in 1954.

On September 18, 1947, Carl was united in marriage to Leola Flater in Independence, IA. The couple welcomed two daughters into their family. Carl farmed on the family farm until 1957. He then began working at Gene's Locker in Holland, then Ritchie Manufacturing in Conrad, Mid-Equipment in Grundy Center, and lastly Richieu Foods, from which he retired.

Carl was a hardworking man, who provided a good living for his family. In addition to his farming career and other occupations, he worked as a carpenter, a skill he learned as a young boy that he took with him his entire life. Carl helped build and remodel houses and during his retirement, he enjoyed many woodworking projects. He also enjoyed vegetable gardening and enjoying the fruits of his labor with his family, friends and neighbors. He was a wonderful family man and a very special dad. His daughters admired his hard work and dedication but what they will miss the most about him is how caring he was towards them. No matter what his daughters were going through, he was always there to lend a helping hand and be there to listen. They will miss him dearly but know he is now at peace, and with those that went before him.

He is survived by his two daughters, Carolyn Schmidt and Becky Schmidt; many nieces and nephews.

Carl was preceded in death by his parents; wife Leola; siblings Anna (Hank) Werkman, Renko Jr. (Gertie) Schmidt, Lucy (Hank) Abels, Margaret (Herbert) VanDeest, Martha Schmidt, Esther (Chris) Freese, Irene Schmidt and infant sister Helena.

D-NH Robotics Club hosts STEM Camp for local youngsters

By MICHAELA KENDALL
The Grundy Register

DIKE - Students of the Dike-New Hartford High School Robotics Club are setting out to show younger students how cool science, technology, engineering and math can really be.

On Wednesday of last week, the club hosted a fun and interactive STEM Camp to get younger students involved with and interested in STEM.

The STEM camp was planned and orchestrated by Robotics Club students, with a little help from Robotics Club Coaches Joanna Seymour and Chelsie Slaba.

Over 120 D-NH students from grades 2 through 5 gathered at the high school for the after-school camp. Once there, students were split into groups, where they participated in several different STEM sessions, including: a virtual reality sandbox building session, a $100 word challenge session, build your own slime session, an escape session, paper roller coaster building session and an ozobot programming session.

Each session was overseen by a member of the Robotics Club, who led students in the learning activities.

One club member, sophomore Taylor Stanbrough, was in charge of the virtual reality sandbox - a crowd favorite with the younger students.

"The kids thought the sandbox was so cool and fun," she said. "I gave them different challenges, like build a ship or a castle; they got to use their imagination and learn a lot. Nobody wanted to leave!"

The club members agreed between themselves that the STEM Camp is a great opportunity to get younger students involved in STEM, and show them how much fun it can be.

"It introduces a lot of new ideas to them, and opens up so many new doors," says Robotics Club member Cassie Borwig of Dike. "It's really important to teach kids this stuff when they're young."

Club member Clarissa Lenter of New Hartford agreed, adding that STEM helps students look at problems in a new way, and come up with new solutions.

"There's a lot of crossover in STEM, and a lot of the stuff is interweaved," she said. "It teaches you to look at things in a new way."

Club members agreed that STEM Camp is their way of inspiring the younger generation, and hopefully even getting them involved in Robotics Club when they get to high school.

Zachary Clark, a sophomore club member, says he hopes to be a mentor to younger students.

"I would like to be a mentor for students in any way I can," he said. "I want to go off to college, but maybe stay sort of close so I can come back and stay involved in the Robotics Club here, and mentor the younger generation. Right now, we have two past club members who graduated but still come back and help with programming and stuff like that; I'd like to do that as well."

Stanbrough and Clark agreed that they're happy and honored to be teaching the next generation about STEM, in whatever small way they can.

"We really do need more people who are experienced in STEM fields," Stanbrough said. "We need people who can use those skills to go create better, newer things and make advancements in technology that will help build the future."

this one elderly lady whose husband needed a wheelchair and they couldn't afford one. When we set her up with one from our lending library, I remember she just hugged me and cried, knowing that she'd be able to wheel her husband out onto the porch to sit in the sun, which is all he wanted. That is what makes everything we do worthwhile."

In addition to the lending library and Sight First programs, the Grundy Center Lions also organize and volunteer at local community blood drives, and collect used glasses and hearing aids to be distributed to people in need, both locally and beyond.

The club also participates in and donates to the local Relay for Life, and they award scholarships to local students who are related to Lions Club members.

The club's main - and only - fundraiser is their can collection, where community members donate their empty cans to the club, and club members sort them and load them onto trucks to be taken in and redeemed. Club members spend three days a week sorting and loading cans alone, on top of other service projects.

And though the club may be small - with only fourteen members - their impact on the community doesn't go unnoticed or unappreciated.

Pastor Luther Thoresen of the American Lutheran Church in Grundy Center, is also a member of the local Lions Club, and says he enjoys the club because of its service-oriented values.

"It's a model of volunteer service," he said. "It's all about service to the community and working together to make a difference locally. And you don't have to join the club to help out; you can just volunteer if that's all you want to do."

Thoresen and Colson say the club is always looking for more members and volunteers. For anyone interested in sitting in at a Lions Club meeting, they can join the club on the fourth Monday of each month, at 6:30 p.m. at the Landmark Bistro in Grundy Center, for the monthly meeting. If they would like to simply volunteer, they may contact a Lions Club member.

School Foundation awards over $16,000 in grants

By MICHAELA KENDALL
The Grundy Register

GRUNDY CENTER - Each year, the Grundy Center Community School District Foundation raises money to provide grants that benefit the education of local students by providing classes with new technology, supplies, equipment and other materials to further their learning.

The Foundation is able to award these grants due to the generous contributions by parents, alumni, friends and businesses during the Foundation's annual fundraising campaign.

This year, Foundation trustees were able to award over $16,000 in grants to faculty members for the 2018-2019 school year, which will provide students with everything from new math programs to online library access to new musical instruments.

The grants awarded include: Newly published high quality children's picture books for facilitating a school-wide mock Caldecott Awards facilitated by Mr. Brian Sammons, elementary principal; STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math) supplies for second part of multi-year STEM implementation plan for 1st Grade; Elmo Document Camera for the 5th Grade; MyPerspectives books to complete the inventory for classroom teaching in 7th and 8th Grade ELA; Stanfield Circle Curriculum bundle for MS/HS Special Education; Subscription for Buzzmath program in the 7th and 8th Grade Math; Sonor Meisterclass Deep Bass Metallophone and Instrument Cart for Elementary Music; Two-year renewal services for raz-kids Reading Program e-library for Kindergarten classrooms; Fontas & Pinnell Benchmark Assessment Systems (BAS) to supplement the Literacy Intervention Kits in elementary classrooms; Licensing/arranging fees, Dell XOS 15 laptops, ASUS 24" monitors, Roland Juno DS61 Synthesizer and 300W dual channel combo amplifier for 5-12 Grade Band Department; and Barton Reading & Spelling System for Elementary teachers.

The Foundation was established in 1991 with the purpose of raising funds in order to provide financial assistance to the school for projects and materials which normally wouldn't be possible through the regular school budget. The grants enable students in the school district to have up-to-date curricular items for state-of-the-art teaching. To date, grants have been awarded in excess of $215,000.

Recently, School Board Director Mandy Yoder was elected to a one-year term, and by consensus, Erika Allen was elected to serve another six-year term on the Foundation Board. Officers elected were Kathy Zeiner, President; Kathy Mock, Vice President; and Phil Johnson, Secretary/Treasurer. Superintendent Neil Mullen serves as Executive Director and the remaining Trustees are Wendy Muller and Kathy Ross.

Cross Country success

Sawyer Loger will be running at the State Cross Country event on Saturday, October 27, in Fort Dodge. Sierra Loger will join her Cross Country Team on Saturday, October 27, also in Fort Dodge. The girls will run at 1:00, and Sawyer will run at 1:30. Good luck.

Now for the rest of the story: history has it recorded that cross country was started in Dike in 1973 - 1974 with Coach Bill Hinkle. The year before our own Dick Juhl (Tiger) encouraged three girls to start running, but they were not a cross country team.)

Cross country is now coached by Will Reingardt, and he has the privilege to have the first ever brother sister entering state cross country events. Sawyer Loger is a senior at D-NH and will run at state cross country Saturday and will be attending Iowa State next year. His sister Sierra Loger is a Sophomore at D-NH and will run with the girls team at state cross country on Saturday. Running runs in the blood at the Loger home as brother Shayden will be a freshman next year and join his sister in cross country. Sawyer has given his sister and brother some good goals to strive for. Parents of the Loger runners are Lance and Melissa Loger of Dike.

If anyone finds our facts to be wrong on the brother sister Logers first ever to make state, send the information.

Friday night football

The Dike New Hartford fans will enjoy a home game on Friday, October 26. The Wolverines will play host to the South Hamilton Hawks for a 7:00 p.m. kickoff. I listened to the game that was played at Iowa City, and the announcers were impressed with our fan attendance and excitement. Wait until he sees us in action at home!

Our football field is so pretty at night. Traveling down 160th on game nights just makes drivers slow down and enjoy the bright lights, green grass and fans lined up at the fence and in the stands. Our blue and white colors will take over the field and outshine the maroon and white.

The blue and white uniforms took on a lot of dirt last week, and the team mothers put in extra time on getting them clean. They share and compare notes when it is laundry time, and Michelle Reinicke informed me that she has found the spray and soak overnight method and then scrub and spray again before they go in the washer works best. Her Matt, number 76, stays just a bit cleaner than receivers Kiewiet and Moore. The gals share laundry successes, and many times the best advice is to SHOUT IT OUT! Let's Play Football.

Cleaning time

The drainage ditch behind Mayme Street got its banks cleaned and bottom wiped. The definition of wiped is to remove dirt or moisture or eliminate something by rubbing its surface with a cloth or paper.

In the case of this project, the object doing the wiping was the Grundy County Digger operated by Marty Camarata. Marty and his digger were removing the build-up of wet dirt and weeds from the bottom of the canal that has a 4 foot wide cement bottom. The water coming in from the street runoff will now flow freely and make its way faster to the creek south of town.

I took time to get this picture of the work and found it to be worth sharing. I called and picked up Marty's Aunt Suzan so she could watch the sometimes frightening digger positioning. Later in the day, it was time to take Grandpa Charles to the cleaning site. There we were also greeted by spectator Mike Camarata. We are amazed at the skill and careful attention Marty has in operating his backhoe.

The maneuvering requires careful manipulating of this situation to achieve a clean end.

Women in Mission

We ate the chili, we ate the chicken noodle soup and we ate anything else put on our trays! Over one hundred friends and church families enjoyed the soup supper and bake sale. We look forward to preparing each and every one of our events for the church and community.

The Dike United Methodist Church committees, The Women in Mission, The Men in Mission and the congregation look for ways to help the community of Dike and welcome any projects that need helping hands.

Together we can make things happen for the good of the community. Give the church a call, and make us aware of a need that we can respond to.

Example: The high school teachers at D-NH hold conferences from 3:45 until 8:00 p.m. Women in Mission take a prepared hot meal to the school for those teachers as they find a break time in their conference schedules. Elementary teachers will also receive this treat in November during their conference schedules. Enjoy.

Eye Testing Lions and Preschool

The Dike-New Hartford Lions with the assistance of several Lions from Grundy Center spent the day giving eye tests to the morning and afternoon preschool students. The tests are given each year, and this is the 3rd year for Dike-New Hartford to participate in the program. The tests are sent to Iowa City where results will detect any eye issues. Lions administering the exams were Merlyn Petersen, Ron Michaelsen, Laverne Middleswart, Gene Colson and John Kramer.

To Everything There Is a Season

"There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens: a time to be born and a time to die, a time to plant and a time to uproot, a time to kill and a time to heal, a time to tear down and a time to build, a time to weep and a time to laugh, a time to mourn and a time to dance..."
—Ecclesiastes 3:1-4 NIV

Just as the tides ebb and flow, so too do our moods. The cycles of our moods can sometimes follow the path of the sun, rising in the morning and waning at night, or it can even follow the seasons, waxing as the days grow longer in the Spring, and waning as the days grow short in the Fall and Winter. Nature has an order, and even happiness and sadness seem to fit into nature's cycles. When we realize this, it gives us hope that our sadness will pass. One of the problems with bad moods is that they narrow our view, not allowing us to see beyond the current state we are in. But trust that the disagreeable state you are in will change, as surely it will. Sometimes all it takes to turn things around is a good meal with friends or family or a good night's sleep. And it's always a good idea to turn our problems over to God. The solace of prayer is available anytime and anywhere. —Christopher Simon

Making the cut

Landmark Bistro earns top five spot in state's best tenderloin contest

By MICHAELA KENDALL
The Grundy Register

GRUNDY CENTER - In search of Iowa's best tenderloin, look no further than Grundy Center's very own Landmark Bistro. Earlier this month, the Landmark earned the honor of being placed in the top five for Iowa's Best Breaded Pork Tenderloin contest, sponsored by the Iowa Pork Producers Association.

Each year during National Pork Month in October, the Iowa Pork Producers Association announces the state's Best Breaded Pork Tenderloin, and honors the top four runner-ups. Candidates for Best Tenderloin are chosen by online voting, and the top five are selected after representatives from the Iowa Pork Producers make a surprise visit to each of the top restaurants to taste the tenderloins for themselves.

"I was so surprised, but also really excited to find out I'd made it into the top five," says Landmark owner Jill Krausman. "It's always when you least expect it. I didn't even know anything until three people came in, and they all ordered a tenderloin. Turns out they were secret judges, and afterwards, they asked to speak to me and told me I'd made it into the top five of the contest."

So, what's the secret to making a great tenderloin?

According to Krausman, the answer is simple - it's the pork; good old Iowa pork.

"We use fresh loins, cut fresh every day by my dad," she said. "After they're sliced, we send them through the tenderizer twice. Instead of focusing on making them bigger, we focus on making them thicker and more meaty; we don't want them to be too thin. After that, we cover them in a pre-dip, and then breading, and fry them up. We can also grill them or do strips for a salad, but the sandwiches are more popular and one of our top five best selling items on the menu."

Each week, the Landmark celebrates "Tenderloin Tuesday," where customers can come and get a hearty tenderloin with all the toppings plus fries as the lunch special of the day.

"We get a lot of people in for that, and since the Iowa Tenderloin list came out, we've gotten even more people from out of town who come here to try our tenderloin," Krausman said. "It's amazing; I don't know what it is, but breaded pork tenderloins are a phenomenon in Iowa. When people come from out of state, the first thing they want to try is a breaded pork tenderloin. I think it's because Iowa is such a strong pork production state."

Krausman says she's proud to be part of the pork culture in Iowa, and though she's happy to be named to the top five for Best Tenderloin, she's not going to be complacent.

"I'm really happy with the top five spot, but we're going to keep working hard to earn that number one spot," Krausman said.

Pork Facts

* Iowa producers market approximately 50 million hogs a year. Nearly one-third of the nation's hogs are raised in Iowa.

* At any one time, there are approximately 20 million pigs being raised in Iowa.

* Iowa is the number one pork producing state in the U.S. and the top state for pork exports.

* Iowa has more than 6,000 hog farms.

* 94 percent of Iowa's hog farms are family owned enterprises.

* The average American will eat the equivalent of 28 pigs in their lifetime.

* Pork tenderloin cuts are almost as lean as skinless chicken breasts.

* At the global level, pork is by far the most widely consumed meat.

* Pork is the most versatile meat. It can be marinated, roasted, grilled, skewered, dry rubbed, boiled, baked, barbecued, microwaved, pan-fried or stir-fried.

* During the War of 1812, a packer named Uncle Sam Wilson sent off several hundred barrels of pork for the troops. Each package was labeled 'U.S.' and it didn't take long for 'Uncle Sam' to be a household name for the government.

My favorite pork recipe: Sweet Virginia Heat Spare Ribs

By ZARDRELL MCKNIGHT

Special to the Grundy Register

(Editor's note: Zardrell McKnight is the founder and operator of Z's Craft BBQ, which will open in Grundy Center at the beginning of 2019. A native of Richmond, Virginia, he relocated to Grundy County earlier this year and hopes to bring the tastes of Texas-style BBQ to north central Iowa)

Rub ingredients

¼ cup of salt.
¼ cup of black pepper.
½ cup light brown sugar
Garlic powder, paprika, onion powder, mustard powder, and chili powder to taste.

Meat
One rack, pork spare ribs

Instructions

Mix the rub well. With the spare rib, separate the cartilage, get a nice square piece and remove the membrane (St. Louis cut).

Add a mustard slather (optional) as a binder.

Apply the rub liberally on both sides. Let it sit in the refrigerator or at room temperature for one hour.

Use a pellet or electric smoker if you're a beginner, and if you're more advanced, use all wood (Z prefers oak, but maple, mesquite and pecan can also be used) and no charcoal. Make sure the temperature of the smoker between 200 and 225 degrees Fahrenheit. Make sure the smoke and fire is clean (thin blue wispy smoke) with even heat.

Set the rack of ribs on the smoker with the thicker end toward the fire. Keep the meat away from the fire if using an offset smoker.

Check the ribs every hour. Look for color tenderness and bone pull back. Use a spritz of apple cider vinegar, apple juice and water in equal parts to maintain moisture.

After three or four hours, take a fourth of a stick of butter and a little bit of sugar and put that at the bottom of round foil. Put the rib in there and wrap tightly. That'll bring moisture, flavor and a nice sweetness to the meat. Then give it another 3 or 4 hours and keep checking the tenderness.

If it's really tender, it's done.

How to make the sauce

Combine one stick of butter, finely diced onions and two teaspoons of minced garlic.

Let that break down and sweat until it caramelizes. Then add one cup of ketchup, one cup of brown sugar, a half cup of Texas Pete's (or hot sauce of your choice), and let that simmer and mix in.

Squeeze a quarter cup of lemon juice in, then add a quarter cup of apple cider vinegar, onion powder (to taste), a pinch of black pepper, a pinch of salt, and four tablespoons of dark molasses.

Let that simmer for a couple hours, and let it melt together. Make sure it's smooth and not chunky.

Finish the ribs over a hot grill for 15 minutes. Sauce the ribs down as you constantly flip them.

Creamy Ranch Crockpot Iowa Chops

Robert Maharry, Publisher

My fiance Kellie makes these, and I always look forward to them.

Ingredients
Two boneless Iowa chops
One can, cream of chicken soup
One can, cream of mushroom soup
One dry ranch packet

Instructions
This one is about as simple as it gets. Just put the chops in, add the other three ingredients on top, set the crockpot on high for six hours, and enjoy.

We really like to have these with either a rice side or mashed potatoes.

Cheesy Pork Cutlets

Brenda Abels, Office Assistant

My husband Leon will cut a pork loin into 1" cutlets. We will put 6 cutlets into a slow cooker and put one can Cream of Cheddar Soup and a small amount of water over the cutlets. The slow cooker is on low and will take about 6 hours to cook the meat.

I love it cooked this way because it is so tender and moist. We usually have mashed potatoes and green beans with the pork cutlets and Bishop's Pie for dessert.

Gravy Baked Pork Chops

Clint Poock, Regional Sales Manager

My grandma would make this for our Sunday family dinner - the whole house smelled great. I was in my early college years and could pack the food away back then-this was a favorite of everyone. A real crowd pleaser as people gathered around the table.

Gravy Baked Pork Chops:
4 pork chops (about 1 pound)
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/4 C. water

In a skillet, brown chops. Mix soup & water. Put pork chops in a casserole. Pour the soup mixture over the top. Bake at 350 degrees for 1-1 1/2 hours or until done. You can also make gravy and not use the soup. It's great with sliced potatoes.

Voter Accessibility: All voting sites are fully accessible to persons with physical disabilities. Each site also has a voter assist ballot marking device that allows persons with disabilities to vote independently. This device allows voters to make their selections using an audio read-back and touchpad, or touchscreen. The touch-screen option provides magnification and reverse black and white images. Voters unable to see the screen may have the screen turned off and use only the audio read-back and touchpad features. The audio read-back feature provides all ballot instructions, choices, and selections in an audio format using headphones. After making selections with the ballot marking device, via touchpad or touchscreen, the device will mark the voter's paper ballot and the voter will insert their marked ballot in the regular ballot tabulator used for all other ballots.

Voters may also choose another person to assist them to vote, except their employer, employer's agent, or an officer or agent of the voter's union.

Any voter who is physically unable to enter a polling place has the right to vote in the voter's vehicle.

I hereby certify that this is the correct copy of the official ballots to be voted at the General Election on November 6, 2018.

Stahl qualifies as individual

GARNER – The Grundy Center/Gladbrook-Reinbeck boys cross country team will make its first appearance at the state cross country meet as a consolidated program after finishing second in a 2A state-qualifying meet at Garner Golf Course last Thursday.

GC/G-R finished with 94 points, 10 points behind champions Okoboji and one point ahead of NICL rival South Hardin.

Kenny Day led the way for GC/G-R, finishing sixth overall in 17:30. Derek Ciddio finished eighth in 17:33, a split-second ahead of ninth place. Paul Brockett was 11th overall in 17:49, with Sam Schildroth placing 26th in 18:25 and Soren Cleveland running 43rd in 19:16 to round out the scorers for GC/G-R.

Ciddio qualified for the state meet last season as a junior individual, finishing 90th overall in 18:19.

The GC/G-R girls will be represented by an individual as freshman Taylor Stahl qualified with a fifth-place finish in 20:30.

D-NH girls heading to state

Loger qualifies as individual

By JAKE RYDER

MONTICELLO – The Dike-New Hartford girls cross country team qualified for the state meet after placing third at a Class 2A district meet in Monticello on Thursday.

The Wolverines scored 86 points, placing behind Jesup (47) and Cascade (57) for the third of three team spots qualifying from the meet.

D-NH's Sawyer Loger qualified as an individual after finishing ninth in the boys race in 17:20.

Taylor Kvale was the runner-up of the girls race, running 19:34. Cascade's Madeline Rhomberg was the winner in 19:20.

"I wanted to focus on the last part of my race because I don't do as well with my form and just haven't been breathing as well," Kvale said. "I was focusing on [Rhomberg] because I knew she wanted to go get it so I just tried to do the best for my team so we could pull this out."

Kvale was the standout for the Wolverines this season, but the freshman knows how hard her teammates have worked to accomplish a goal bigger than Kvale's individual aspirations.

Also scoring team points for D-NH was Kaity Houts in 14th in 21:25, Alexis Jensen in 20th in 21:55, Rachel Wardell placing 23rd in 22:03 and Jady Bennett in 27th in 22:20.

"Everyone has to do their part to make the team do well,"

The Dike-New Hartford girls cross country team poses with its state-qualifier banner after placing third at a state-qualifying meet in Monticello on Thursday. (Jake Ryder photo)

Kvale said.

D-NH head coach Will Reingardt was happy to see the Wolverines get back as a team for the first time since 2015.

"We've wanted to get over that barrier," Reingardt said. "This is a tight-knit group that wanted to make it to state and they needed to be a pack up front. Every meet, somebody else took over second, third and fourth and all of those girls have been close to each other."

The D-NH boys fell short of their team goal, placing fifth in a difficult district with 158 points. Bellevue dominated with 45 points while Monticello and Camanche claimed the last two spots with 81 and 84 points, respectively.

As the lone Wolverine boys representative at Saturday's Fort Dodge meet, Loger said making the state meet as an individual wouldn't have been possible without his teammates pushing him.

"I wouldn't have had anything to run to," Loger said. "We've all been pushing each other this season and we had to earn what we have. ... This program has helped me get to where I am now and I'm happy that I have such a good coaching staff and teammates – I really love this school."

The top three runners have flipped between Loger, Seth Wibben and Conlee Lyons for most of the season.

Wibben came up just short of notching a second-consecutive trip to the state meet as the senior finished a second out of the top 15 in 16th place at 17:39. Lyons, a junior, was 32nd in 18:31.

"Sawyer found his race in the middle of it and it was critical to create some space," Reingardt said. "The kids left it out on the course and that's all we can ask. ... These guys have represented the school in the way it needs to be done. Seth's done everything as a leader from the time he entered in seventh grade and I want to thank him for his efforts."

Saturday's meet in Fort Dodge will undoubtedly be a chance for the Dike-New Hartford cross country program to celebrate a successful season, and with plenty of room to grow.

"This makes me really happy," Houts said. "I love cross country, and I love spending time with all of my friends."

UNI Fishing Club building connections

Recently-formed group fishes at Grundy County Lake

By JAKE RYDER
The Grundy Register

CEDAR FALLS – Students at the University of Northern Iowa are keeping a spot open on the boat in the UNI Fishing Club.

The club was established in 2017 by a quartet of UNI students – Andrew Welden, Ethan Butler, Conner Hinckle and Jack Mauer.

“Ethan and I wanted to start a fishing club so people who shared the same passion as us could build connections and enjoy the sport of fishing,” Welden, the club's vice president, said. “We worked together with Conner and Jack and built the foundation of the club together and started finding others around campus to join and continue to build the club up.”

With close to 30 paid members in the club, the UNI Fishing Club is growing fast. The group usually holds seminars on different types of fishing during a typical meeting.

“The goal of our meetings and seminars is to learn something new and then apply that knowledge to a related fishing event later that week,” Club President Brady Determan, a Camanche graduate, said. “The events can range from going out and casually fishing a lake, to competing against other members for prizes, or just simply going out to eat and bonding as a club.”

The club also affords the opportunity for Hinckle and Mauer to pursue competitive fishing at the collegiate level, a step up from the high school fishing team they formed as classmates at Janesville High School.

Competitive bass fishing has extended opportunities to collegiate competitions in recent years, something that Hinckle and Mauer have been quick to jump on, qualifying for the FLW (Fishing League Worldwide) College National Championship last year and remaining determined when boat issues kept them out of the actual championship event.

“To be a part of this industry is a great experience,” Hinckle said, “as well as learning a lot of social skills with starting the club.”

Local tournaments hosted by the UNI Fishing Club as well as some smaller “biggest fish” contests within the membership will allow members to get a taste of the competitive edge of the sport.

The school group has close to 30 paid members and offers opportunities for UNI students to fish and socialize with fellow anglers, as well as pursuing competitive opportunities under the UNI banner. The club is also looking to expand opportunities for ice fishing this winter, with Determan noting that Grundy County Lake, located on the other side of Highway 20 just outside of Dike, is a particularly favorite spot for the winter months, though the group fishes there throughout the year, including a recent catfishing meet-up last month.

“We have some new members that have expressed a desire to learn how to ice fish, so we plan to do quite a bit of it this year,” Determan added. “You can expect to see us there often.”

Any area UNI students can inquire about membership in the club by e-mailing the club at northernowafishing@gmail.com.

Comets sharp in sweep of Belle Plaine

By SCOTT BIERLE
Mid-America Publishing
CONRAD — The rematch was no match. One year after a five-set, drag-out battle to the final point, the BCLUW volleyball team was in control from start to finish and swept Belle Plaine during a Class 2A Region 4 quarterfinal bout Monday.

The Comets showed no effects from a 12-day layoff, beating Belle Plaine 25-12, 25-16, 25-14.

“The Comets were good tonight. That was fun,” proclaimed BCLUW head coach Kristen Garber. “I told the girls to expect a five-game match, but we’ll take it in three.

“We really had a great week of practice. We were focused - that is not always the case with this team, but we were pumped to play tonight. I was nervous what would happen, but all is good.”

BCLUW rallied to win in a marathon five-sets at Belle Plaine in a regional quarterfinal a year ago, winning the fourth game 32-30 and the fifth 15-9.

Knotted five-all in game one, Ubben stuffed Kenzie Mantz’s hit that sparked a 17-4 run for the hosts that built a 21-8 advantage.

“Madison made the decision to play with emotion,” Garber said, “and when she got the block on Mantz in the first game, everyone just fed off that.”

Mantz, an Iowa State commit, entered Monday’s match fourth in Class 2A in kills with 377 for a five kill per game average.

“We had to know where she (Mantz) was at all times and we knew she would score points, we just could not let that one point turn into 10. And the girls did a great job of that,” noted Garber.

The Comets’ first-game knockout punch included six service points for Easton Swanson and capped with five for Olivia Hughes, who landed two service aces.

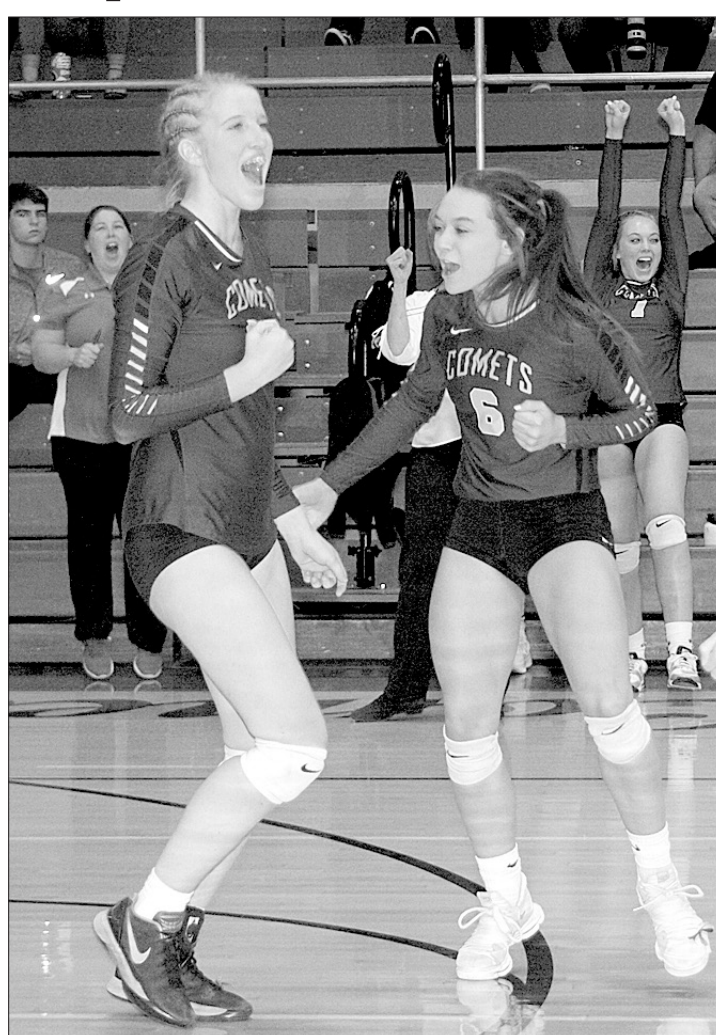

The Comets were on-target at the service stripe, going 73-of-74 with 11 aces. Lizzie Garber headlined the serving at 21-of-21 with four aces followed by Swanson 13-of-13 and Parker Scurr 10-of-10. Hughes and Cate Nason had two service aces each.

“The serving was outstanding. We were hitting our spots and they were getting frustrated,” said Garber.

BCLUW grabbed the commanding 2-0 game lead closing the second set on an 11-0 run. The Comets pulled within 16-15 on a side-out and then Garber scored 10 service points with three aces to go with kills for Ubben, Jade Hammers and Bailey Ashton.

Swanson and Hammers pounced down 10 kills apiece as Swanson was 21-of-22 hitting and Hammers 27-of-31. Ubben added four kills and Garber three as the sophomore also lofted 16 assists. Nason added 10 assists. Defensively, Swanson collected eight digs and Ubben seven.

Another long scoring spree fueled the Comets in game three, uncorking a 16-1 run, going from down 7-6 to up 22-8. Garber had six service points and then Ubben eight.

Garber added, “I could name everyone tonight for having a role in this win. It was a team effort.”

The post-season win improved the Comets to 25-11 and into a regional semi-final match at Jewell Thursday against Woodward-Granger. W-G, 23-10, upset No. 15

South Hamilton Monday in four games. Belle Plaine closed the fall campaign 23-6.

The BCLUW — Woodward-Granger winner advances to the 2A Region 4 final Monday in Earlham against the Tri-Center (29-7) and ACGC (21-9) winner. Tri-Center is seventh-ranked.

Whoa baby

AGWSR coach announces pregnancy before Cougars rally

By KRISTI NIXON
Mid-America Publishing
CLARKSVILLE — AGWSR co-head coach Stacy Drake had double the reason for celebrating on Tuesday, Oct. 16.

The day she announced to everyone her first pregnancy, her volleyball team rallied from a 2-0 set deficit against Clarksville to win the Class 1A Region 4 opener at Clarksville, 3-2.

“It’s been an interesting day,” Drake said. “I announced that I’m pregnant, I think the girls used that excitement a little bit, too, throughout the day.”

The Indians led in the opener 24-18 and nearly let that win slip away before taking it by a 26-24 score. An ace serve by Makenzie Bloker in the second completed the Clarksville comeback in the second set in which the home team trailed 21-16 for the 25-23 final before AGWSR came back with 25-20, 25-21, 15-11 wins to end it.

During the course of the match, four different Cougar hitters tallied double-digit kills with a match-high 15 from Taylor Sperfslage and three with 11 each: Taryan Barrick, Alyssa Hames and Alayna Hunt.

“We told them pretty much that if you didn’t want your season to be done in the next 25 points, then you probably should take care of the ball,” Drake said. “That was our main thing that whole time, but a lot of the points that they were scoring was us hitting it out of the court, hitting it into the net or double hits or random different things like that...then finally they came together and were able to get themselves out of that mess. As long as they took care of the ball, we were able to take it from them.”

And yet, Clarksville started out the fifth game with a 4-0 lead, forcing Drake to call timeout. From there, the Cougars rallied to tie it at 5-all with a kill by Alayna Hunt and various different Indian errors.

Despite that, Drake said that the momentum was with her team all along.

“Well, it was kind-of, sort-of there,” Drake said. “Every game we had the lead at some point. We knew it was going to be a close game and looking at the stats and what we knew about them. We just had to play our game and actually keep the ball in the court. And then we were going to be able to take it which what we did in those last three sets.”

Both teams had numerous errors that slowed the pace-of-play, including numerous whistles for double hits, four hits and net violations. The Indians were whistled 13 times for double hits on sets while AGWSR was called for it four times.

“A lot of errors that cost us,” Clarksville coach Brandon Zelle said. “We cut those errors in half we’re going to play Janesville (on Monday). ... [The Cougars] came in flying in games three, four and five and our mistakes...couldn’t get out of our own way.”

Drake added, “It was on both sides. Both setters were pretty nervous for the day and Natalie (Gerstein) is a very young setter, so she was nervous for her first-round tournament game and I understand that. It’s definitely a different setting and once they grasp it...it was definitely worse in the first set, both setters as the night went. It was one thing they had to make sure they were aware of.

“Even the net calls, there were a lot of those, too. I told them that (the officials) they are going to be a stickler and that’s what it should be. If you do something, you should be called for it. They definitely had to think about every single little thing throughout the whole match.”

AGWSR was whistled for seven net violations to three for Clarksville.

Drake expected the match to be as close as it was and the turning point was getting her hitters to direct the ball away from Clarksville libero Cheyenne Behrends, who recorded a match-high and individual season-best 38 digs.

“They had some hitters like we had some hitters,” Drake said. “They have a great libero, she can get to a lot of balls, which is good for them. We had to make sure that we played the ball where we needed to put it which was hopefully not towards her as much as possible. Eventually, they were able to get that across.”

The ‘reward’ for AGWSR’s win is a quarterfinal match at Janesville against top-ranked and four-time defending Class 1A champion Janesville, whose head coach was scouting the match.

“You work on Bree Thompson and you never know,” Drake said. “Cinderella stories happen in the world. They are a very structured team, a very good team.”

“We’re going to be working on a lot of blocking for sure and a lot of digging, big-time. Janesville can jump, they have a lot of good hitters who know where to put it, so we’re going to move our feet a lot. We’ll try to make it the best game as possible.”

D-NH sweeps A-P

By JAKE RYDER
The Grundy Register
DIKE — Positive energy fueled the Dike-New Hartford volleyball team to a 3-0 win over Aplington-Parkersburg in a regional quarterfinal on Monday, Oct. 22.

The Wolverines (33-12) won 25-11, 25-5, 25-18. D-NH will travel to Charles City on Thursday to play Lake Mills, a straight-set winner over Saint Ansgar on Monday.

Morgan Weber had team-high marks with 19 kills and 21 digs in addition to 15-of-15 serving and three ace serves. Amber Rickert added 11 kills, eight digs, two blocks, and three ace serves on 13-of-13 serving. Carlee Dove had 10 kills and two blocks while Angelina Westberg and Lexie Fager dug up 16 and 13 attacks, respectively, to bolster D-NH’s defense.

“We know we can make it to state game-by game, we’ve just gotta keep that positive energy going every game,” Weber said. “A-P’s one of our rivals and that’s always a good feeling, but we had to keep self-contained and stay positive throughout the whole game.”

The Wolverines jumped out to a 12-3 lead in the first set with Weber hammering the ball and D-NH’s serving immediately putting A-P on its heels.

D-NH had all the momentum in the second set, too, going on a 12-2 run to start and ending rallies quickly.

“We did OK on defense,” A-P head coach Erin Huddleson said. “Our blocking just wasn’t solid tonight for some reason and we live and die on our blocking. It’s helpful for the block to take power off the swing so our defense had to step up, when they were hitting without a block it’s difficult to pass the ball.”

Huddleson made a few adjustments in the third set to get the best passers she could in the back row, while also bringing in Koryn Bellows to finish some attacks.

A-P also got a boost from senior Westin Hansen, unable to play due to a wrist injury but someone that Huddleson said has been a “team cheerleader” from the bench and fired up her teammates for the third set on Monday.

The Falcons came out firing, taking a 3-1 lead early in the first set and never quite going away even as D-NH found a way to stay a step ahead.

D-NH pulled ahead 22-15 and weathered a three-point run from the Falcons to answer with a 3-0 run of their own to finish off the sweep.

“Their energy level was elevated,” D-NH head coach Diane Harms said, “and their execution was better. I don’t think our servers did quite a good job of being aggressive and we didn’t match their intensity that third set, so there was a lot more of a back-and-forth than you would have liked to close out, but the girls did a nice job of closing out in the end.”

Monday was the end of the road for A-P’s seniors.

“Jenna [Bruns] has been around the program for a while and her and Avari [Everts] were named our two captains,” Huddleson said. “We counted on Jenna to get something done in every part of the game. We were able to get Westin and Avari out again this year and Westin couldn’t play the rest of the season after a season-ending injury to her wrist but she became our team cheerleader on the bench.

“Lauren Olson was our most improved player this year, didn’t play varsity as a junior but she stepped up and did everything I asked of her. ... Avari hadn’t been a setter in her career but we worked on her hands a lot as the season went on and she got more confident and coachable, that’s something that we will miss. She’s an all-around strong player.”

A-P’s season ends at 9-20 overall, but the Falcons showed a promising sign of progress by advancing past the first round of the postseason for the first time since 2012.

Rebels lock in, sweep C-M

By JAKE RYDER
The Grundy Register
REINBECK — Paula Kelley didn’t think Gladbrook-Reinbeck volleyball was playing its game until the third set on Monday night.

That’s when G-R finally locked in after some ups and downs in the Rebels’ 3-0 sweep of Collins-Maxwell in a Class 1A regional quarterfinal on Monday, Oct. 22.

Class 1A No. 11 G-R (26-9) won 25-16, 25-19, 25-16. Saari Kuehl had a team-high 19 kills and 11 digs, with Haleigh Berendes adding nine kills and Meriah Wittgreve contributing four kills and two blocks. Alyssa Morgan had eight digs and Rachael Scarf was 22-of-22 serving with four aces.

The first set went G-R’s way, but Collins-Maxwell built a 14-7 lead in the second set. After a Rebel timeout, G-R went on an 11-2 run to take the lead and finished with seven of the last 10 points to take the 2-0 lead in the match.

The Rebels started the third set on an 8-2 run and charged forward for the sweep.

“We started off slow tonight,” Kelley, G-R’s head coach, said. “We really didn’t play Rebel volleyball until the third game. ... Saari came through with some key hits, Rachael was huge in the serving department and had some good touches at the net on defense.”

The Rebels advance to Thursday’s regional semifinal at No. 5 North Tama, which will be the fourth meeting between the teams this season. The Redhawks have won all three, though the last meeting on Oct. 11 went to five sets.

“Passing dictated our speed tonight and we will need to clean it up for Thursday like we have been playing,” Kelley said. “We are excited and looking forward to Thursday, it should be a great match.”
